Rotary's All-Male Policy Creates Flap In GR, Too

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A local parochial high school has quit the Rotary Club's "Junior Rotarian" program because the all-male service club rejected the school's female nominee.

West Catholic High School said the Rotary's rejection of Joan Zwiwer, a junior, was "morally compromising" and possibly illegal. The senior nominee, Al Didion, was accepted.

"It's not just a legal question," said Sue Ellinger, a school counselor who made the nominations. "It's morally compromising. How can I tell one student he is eligible for the honor, but that another equally qualified student is not because of her sex?"

Benton Harbor High School dropped out of the Twin Cities Rotary Club program last month because the all-male service club rejected a suggestion that female students also be invited.

James Caudill, the school district's director of communications and Title IX coordinator, said attendance might cost the district $2 million in federal aid. Caudill claimed the all-male policy violates Title IX of the federal school-funding act that prohibits schools receiving federal aid from participating in programs that discriminate on the basis of sex.

School officials from other Twin Cities school systems, including St. Joseph, Michigan Lutheran and Lake Michigan Catholic high schools, said they planned to continue in the Rotary program.

Each year, the Grand Rapids Rotary Club invites each city high school to nominate two boys as Junior Rotarians.

John Collins, president of the club, said "It would be meaningless for a woman to be a Junior Rotarian because, as our Rotary International laws stand now, she could never become a Rotarian."

Collins said Miss Zwiwer was invited to attend club luncheons as a guest but she cannot be designated a Junior Rotarian.

John Matthews, affirmative action officer for the city's public schools, said the rejection prompted a review of school policies governing the program.

"The law clearly says we cannot subject students to different treatment based on sex," he said. But while the review is underway, pupils may attend club luncheons.

West Michigan May Get Two More U.S. Judges

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee Wednesday approved giving the western district of Michigan two additional U.S. District Court Judges.

If the two additional judgeships are approved by both the House and Senate, then President Carter will appoint the two new judges, subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Congressman Dave Stockman's office here confirmed the bill passed the House Judiciary full committee by a 20-13 vote. Stockman's office said the bill probably wouldn't reach the House until it reconvenes in January.

At the present time the western district is served by only two judges, Judge Noel P. Fox, the chief judge, and Judge Wendell Miles. The district covers the entire western half of Michigan, stretching from the Indiana border to the Wisconsin border in the Upper Peninsula.

In a five-page letter sent to Rep. Peter W. Rodino of New Jersey, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, for appointment of three additional judges to serve the district.

In addition to the size of the district, Judge Fox cited a backlog of nearly 1,600 cases, many complex cases and an average delay of at least four years before a civil suit comes to trial.

Sex Education Vote Due

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill eliminating Michigan's ban on teaching birth control in school classrooms is up for a final vote in the Senate after backers repulsed attempts to weaken it.

The measure, which would allow discussion of family planning and birth control methods in sex education classes, has already cleared the House. But it would have to return for agreement in minor changes if it wins passage in the Senate.

While the bill drops Michigan's long-standing prohibition against discussions of birth control, it contains several provisions to attract support of reluctant lawmakers.

It does not require schools to hold such classes, lets parents remove their children from them, bans discussion of abortion and requires local advisory boards to review material and teaching methods.

But critics of the bill attempted to further strengthen parents' abilities to keep their children out of such classes. These efforts were denounced by supporters of the bill and defeated.

One would have required a public vote before a school district could include family planning and birth control in sex education classes. But the key test came on an amendment which would require parental permission before a child could take the class.

That would strengthen the bill's current language which requires a parent to take action if he wants his child excluded.

Opponents of the amendment, offered by three Republican senators, said it would deny birth control information to the children who need it the most. A parent who fails to provide sex information at home, they argued, is not likely to be interested enough in his child to make sure he takes the course.

The amendment failed, 14-10. Lawmakers pointed out that parents will be notified if birth control is to be discussed in class.

Illinois Woman Really On Go

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer
OSCO, Ill. (AP) — In the middle of practically nowhere, this western Illinois hamlet of 130 claims to have the nation's busiest woman.

Janice Hickenbottom, 28, is so hard to reach by telephone the main means of contacting her is by citizens' band radio. Her CB handle is "Baby Sister."

She works on a corn shelling rig, drives a grain truck, tends bar several nights a week at Tony's Tap and on Fridays fixes what customers say is "the best catfish in the world," bowls once a week, does farm work and is a housewife and mother of three. Sometimes late at night when she wants to get away from it all, she and a girlfriend pedal their bikes around town.

On the CB, her husband, Clarence, is "Illinois Flash," her mother is "Egg Woman," and her father is "Corn Sheller."

On "vacation" last month, she and her husband spent 1½ days at the Farm Progress Show in Washington, Iowa. On Sundays, when there isn't a special corn shelling run, she and her husband go four-wheeling off the roads in his truck — meeting the challenges of mud, steep, rocky hills and other natural obstacles tackled by members of the "Fantastic Four-By-Fours."

KALAMAZOO — The State Municipal Boundary Commission came under scrutiny Wednesday in the Benton Harbor Schools desegregation trial and of a separate suit opposing incorporation filed in Ingham County Circuit Court by the townships of Benton and St. Joseph.

The desegregation trial is being heard by U.S. District Judge Noel P. Fox at the Federal building in Kalamazoo.

NAACP ally, Thomas Atkins has charged in a brief submitted to Fox that the Fairplain incorporation effort was actually a "scheme" to facilitate detachment of the predominantly white Fairplain area from the racially mixed Benton Harbor school district.

Atkins claimed that incorporation would "further intensify" racial isolation in Berrien County, Benton Harbor and Benton Harbor school district. He asked that the incorporation be blocked.

The NAACP attorney is representing plaintiffs in the class action suit filed on behalf of children and parents of the Benton Harbor district.

Atkins has entered into evidence a letter to the boundary commission from Herschel McKenzie, former president of the Benton Harbor NAACP chapter. The letter charges that once Fairplain is incorporated, it is likely to immediately petition to the State Board of Education to detach from the Benton Harbor school district and form its own district.

Atty. George McCarger, representing state officials, told the court Wednesday that although the State Board of Education can approve school district boundary changes, it has absolutely no power under the present school code to create a new school district. Judge Fox overruled McCarger's request that questions not be allowed if they implied the state board could create school districts.

Fox replied to McCarger: "While the State Board of Education may not have the specific power of creating school districts, it has the constitutional mandate of leadership and general supervision over school districts."

The Fairplain area seeking to incorporate as a city is roughly bounded on the south and west by the St. Joseph River, on the north by the City of Benton Harbor, and on the east by the Fairplain Plaza Shopping Center, which is included.

The proposed boundaries are nearly identical to those of the former Fairplain school district which consolidated with the Benton Harbor district in 1955.

Rozian told the court that in

IRVING W. ROZIAN Defends Boundary Board

1975 he and other boundary commissioners felt it was "extremely unlikely" the State Board of Education would ever create a school district to match the boundaries of the proposed Fairplain city.

Rozian said the boundary commission has absolutely no power to change school district boundaries. Only the state board can do that, he said. The boundary commission has authority over city, village and township boundaries.

In testimony a day earlier, Dr. John W. Porter, state superintendent of public instruction, supported Rozian. Porter was asked by Craig Atchinson, counsel for the boundary commission, if incorporation of Fairplain as a city would facilitate creation of a separate school district.

"As far as I'm concerned, such an action would have no material effect on the school districts whatsoever," Porter

Killing Of Husband Called Self-Defense

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A psychiatrist testifying for the prosecution says he believes Francine Hughes acted in self-defense when she set the fire that killed her ex-husband.

Dr. Lynn Blunt made the admission during cross-examination Wednesday as testimony drew to a close in the seven-day-old trial of Mrs. Hughes, the defendant in a first-degree murder case that feminists hope to turn into a victory for the rights of battered women.

Mrs. Hughes, a petite mother of four, is charged with the murder of James Hughes, the 31-year-old former construction worker who died in a fire March 9 at the Dansville home of his ex-wife.

"She was defending herself in a sense, because he (Hughes) had told her he would follow her wherever she went," Dr. Lynn Blunt acknowledged under questioning by Mrs. Hughes' attorney, Aryn Greydanus. "She believed that was a real possibility — it wasn't just an idle threat."

"I do not think her actions took premeditation or planning," he added.

Blunt rebutted previous testimony by a psychiatrist and a clinical psychologist that the woman was temporarily insane when she set the fire that destroyed her home.

"Mrs. Hughes does not suffer from mental illness as defined by Michigan statute," he testified. "She felt extremely frustrated and pressured by the circumstances she was living under. I certainly would not call that temporary insanity."

Temporary insanity was added as a defense during testimony Tuesday. Greydanus contended during his opening remarks that Mrs. Hughes set the fire to defend herself from the husband who beat her. The jury has the option of finding

Air Waves Dispute Produces Unique Pact

Nearly 50 years ago at the request of President Herbert Hoover, Congress created the Federal Radio Commission to license radio broadcasting.

Prior to that time the Commerce Department exercised a jurisdiction of sorts, but not in the manner which Hoover's engineering mind thought sufficiently purist.

Station signals frequently collided with one another, working a hardship to themselves and to the listening public.

Hoover obtained a clearcut authority in the FRC to bring an end to that clutter.

Seven years later Congress adopted a recommendation from FDR to supplant the FRC with the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC took over the additional functions from the Interstate Commerce Commission of regulating cable lines, telephones and the telegraph industry. Television regulation followed in the ensuing years.

Although the 1934 Act specifically forbids the FCC to exercise censorship, another clause empowering it to grant, withhold or cancel station licenses in "the public interest, convenience and necessity" has been used, if not to censor programming, to influence it to a marked degree.

Varying somewhat on the political leaning of the Presidential appointees to the Commission, the agency has interpreted this language copied from statutes licensing a public utility to require a licensee to provide balanced programming.

What this means is that if a radio or TV outlet is situated in the corn belt, the FCC expects it to be relatively heavy into farming questions or at the very least not deliver a programming diet suitable only for a New York City audience; if the outlet is located in a community marked by a substantial minority population, the minority approach is supposed to be aired; a station in a college town is expected to give education a reasonably good airing.

makes his story so uncommon. Walking the 4,000 miles from Guatemala to Philadelphia, which is what Eddie did, may seem more eccentric than uncommon.

There is more to the story than that. Eddie took his long walk to try to raise funds to help the earthquake-devastated Guatemalan village he had spent nearly a year helping to rebuild. Fischer was student at Georgetown University when the earthquake struck, but he left his studies to offer his personal involvement to the devastated region.

About that long walk. What could it possibly accomplish? Eddie must radiate sincerity because along the way he stopped to talk to anyone who would listen to him about the Guatemalan town of Rabinal he had adopted as his project. By the time he reached Philadelphia, he had raised more than $175,000.

Incredible? Sure is, but that's what makes people like Eddie Fischer so uncommon. Imagine what a small army of volunteers with a spirit like that could do to problems here at home as well as elsewhere.

DUNES PART OF 'VALUES' AT BRIDGMAN

Editor,

In a recent article on the value of "small towns", the statement was made — "No small town is exactly like any other; each has its own flavor, intimacy and set of values".

Wouldn't it be wonderful if our Bridgman was known for its "set of values", appreciating and valuing our beautiful dunes, which give this region of our country a special character — the unique feature that sets the tone for all our living. When once destroyed, these dunes which have taken thousands of years to form, can never be restored.

Already a large portion of the dunes north of Bridgman have been sand-mined — all that is left to us are the dunes to the south, which extend all the way from the Red Arrow down to Lake Michigan — a vast and beautifully wooded area, the extent of which can only be appreciated when one has stood at the top of Mt. Edward. Before it is too late, let us decide once and for all time to preserve these dunes — for our own enjoyment — and for the generations to come.

GOP Cashing In On Canal Issue

WASHINGTON — Although party moderates remain deeply uneasy over the Sept. 30 vote of the Republican National Committee condemning the new Panama Canal treaties, GOP leaders have wasted no time cashing in on the action.

On the strength of the resolution adopted by the national committee in New Orleans, Ronald Reagan has lent his name and his considerable drawing power to a GOP fund-raising letter pegged to the canal issue.

The appeal which was mailed Oct. 21 to some 450,000 potential contributors, represents the Republican party's first attempt to capitalize on the anti-treaty sentiment which is proving such a gold mine for right-wing groups outside the party structure.

With the aid of direct mail wizard Richard Viguerie, a plethora of conservative organizations have been raking in hundreds of thousands of dollars by playing on the Panama Canal issue.

Now the Republican National Committee hopes to do likewise with the help of Reagan, who virtually created the issue last year during his hard-fought primary battle against former President Gerald Ford.

In his letter, Reagan is asking for $2 million in contributions to "defeat those Democrats, who vote time and again to support actions that weaken our national security."

Ironically, GOP Chairman Bill Brock had done his best in New Orleans to head off an official party denunciation of the Canal treaties. But conservatives on the national committee prevailed.

Both the New Orleans vote and the Reagan letter create awkward problems for Ford, who staunchly supports the treaties, and for Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., who will be bucking the official party line if he ultimately votes for ratification.

Yet neither man objected to the Reagan fund-raising appeal, apparently believing the GOP's need for money outweighed any personal embarrassment.

And indeed, the Republicans have been hurting financially. As of Oct. 3, the national committee had raised only $6.8 million of its targeted $10.5 million budget for 1977.

Some of the party's fund-raising difficulties have been caused by the success of independent conservative groups, including Reagan's own Citizens for the Republic, in grabbing off donations that might otherwise have gone to GOP organizations and candidates.

But Reagan is being careful to stay within the GOP fold. He is holding off on a Panama Canal fund-raising pitch for his own Citizens for the Republic until after the appeal for the Republican party is well under way.

Furthermore, Reagan has steadfastly refused to step outside the party structure in order to lead a conservative charge on the canal issue, annoying some of his erstwhile supporters by his caution.

The national GOP will be indebted to both Reagan and Ford if it winds up reaching its budget target this year. A mid-September fund-raising letter from Ford, stressing a whole array of "critical issues" apart from the Panama Canal, has proven unexpectedly successful.

The Ford appeal, like the Reagan letter, was mailed to about 450,000 potential donors and had produced over $300,000 in contributions by mid-October, an extraordinary return.

It isn't easy, considering the tensions of last year's primary battle, to keep both Ford and Reagan — and their respective backers — under the same umbrella.

But with some fancy footwork, Brock may yet pull it off — in the financial benefit of the entire Republican party.

Timey-Har

Carter Positions Court Disaster

The Panama Canal treaties and the SALT II arms limitation talks are not linked logically, but they are intertwined both psychologically and politically. On each separately and therefore on both together, the Carter administration is now courting disaster.

A strong president, firm in his stance abroad, leading a confident people, just might manage to get the Panama Canal treaties through the Senate. Carter's SALT II performance, if initial reports are correct, could easily doom his diplomatic goals in Panama.

After the Soviets flatly rejected earlier and tougher Carter proposals, the administration apparently caved in and made some astonishing concessions to Moscow regarding our most advanced new weapons.

If current reports are correct, the administration is willing to agree to significant limitations on the U.S. cruise missile and will also agree not to deploy the new neutron bomb. The U.S. is also said to be prepared to agree that the Soviet Backfire bomber is not a strategic weapon, even though it can easily reach the continental U.S.

On troop level limitation, the U.S. has also caved in. Originally Carter demanded that the Soviets pull back 1,700 modern tanks plus 68,000 front line troops. Now that has been modified to any 1,500 tanks and any 68,000 troops. Thus in return for withdrawing some reserves and some junk a couple of hundred miles to the rear, the Soviets will see 29,000 U.S. troops and their tactical nuclear weapons withdrawn across the Atlantic.

With NBC News Poll showing public opinion 61-30 against the Panama treaties, and the Harris Poll showing 58-23 negative, the treaties were already in deep enough trouble. The recent visit to the White House of Panamanian dictator Gen. Omar Torrijos could hardly have helped much.

After a conference in which it was hoped to dispel Senate doubts the language of the treaties, Torrijos and Carter issued a communique. It declared that under some circumstances U.S. ships would have priority in using the canal and that both countries would have the right to keep the canal open. Neither Torrijos nor Carter signed the document.

Trouble began when Torrijos landed at Hato Air Base in Panama City. "I haven't even signed an autograph," he said, laughing. The media have not stressed this Torrijos statement.

Nur does the Torrijos-Carter communique have any legal force. Were an issue pertaining to the treaties to be litigated in an international court, the decision would be based on the language of the treaties themselves.

Amazing concessions to the Soviets, concessions unacceptable even to liberals of Carter's own party, and diplomatic confusion over the canal — these do not add up to assurance abroad and confidence at home. For that reason the terms of the SALT agreement being proposed by the Carter White House dealt yet another blow to Panama Canal treaties already in deep trouble on their merits.

More Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Pentagon has its way, women will constitute one-tenth of the armed service's enlisted personnel by 1983.

To reach this goal, the Defense Department says it plans to increase the current 95,400 enlisted women to 200,000 over the next five years.

Four BH Commission Seats To Be Filled

Four Benton Harbor city commission seats are up for election next Tuesday.

Voters will ballot on four candidates for two commissioner-at-large seats, two announced candidates for 4th Ward commissioner, and an uncontested race for 3rd Ward commissioner.

Running for the two commissioner-at-large posts are incumbents Arnold Bolin and Mildred Wells, former Commissioner Carl L. Brown, and political newcomer Audrey Reed.

Juanita Echols is the only candidate who filed nominating petitions for the 4th Ward commissioner seat. Incumbent Alfred Williams announced recently he will wage a write-in campaign to retain his 4th Ward seat.

Incumbent Michael Guvatos is unopposed for 3rd Ward commissioner.

Also up for election Tuesday are four city ward supervisors and the constable's post. The four city supervisors will be elected solely by write-in votes because no candidates filed for any of the posts. Ward supervisor candidates must receive write-in votes from the ward in which they live. Incumbent Constable Richard Garlanger is unopposed for re-election.

Following are sketches of the two candidates for 4th Ward commissioner and the four candidates for commissioner-at-large.

Mrs. Echols, 48, of 403 Madison St., is a candidate for 4th Ward commissioner. A beauty salon operator, she and her husband, Albert, have two sons. She is chairman of the Northside City Block Club and has been active with the Morton Elementary School PTA. She has been a city resident for the past 30 years.

Williams, 60, is an incumbent seeking re-election as a write-in candidate for 4th Ward commissioner. Williams, who is retired, is chairman of the commission's public works committee and serves on the finance committee. He is former chairman of the Benton Harbor-Benton Township Neighborhood Development Program and a former member of the Benton Harbor Canvassing Board. He and his wife, Sarah, have three grown children, and live at 780 Wauconda.

The Rev. Bolin, 48, of 576 Colfax Ave., is seeking re-election as commissioner-at-large. He is executive director of the Berrien County Council of Churches. He and his wife, Marilyn, have four children. On the commission, he is mayor pro tem and chairman of the legislative committee.

Bolin is a member of U.S. Rep. Dave Stockman's advisory committee on human resources and Blossomland United Way community services committee; is vice chairman of the board of directors of Berrien Opportunities Industrialization Center (OIC). He is a graduate of North Park Theological Seminary in Chicago and Northern Michigan University.

Brown, 38, of 661 Pavanne St., is a counselor for the Berrien County Youth Services Bureau and is a former 2nd Ward commissioner. He is single and chairman of the Benton Harbor Housing Commission. Brown, a member of the Bachelor 41 Club, was named Black Man of the Year by area residents in 1972 and received an award for outstanding leadership from the Black Social Workers Club.

Mrs. Reed, 32, is a substitute teacher for Benton Harbor area schools. She and her husband, Leonard, have three children. She attended Arkansas State, Western Michigan and Michigan State universities and is a former coordinator and teacher for one of three Headstart programs in the Benton Harbor school system.

Mrs. Wells, 67, of 137 Cross St., seeks re-election as commissioner-at-large.

A housewife, she and her husband, The Rev. Nathaniel Wells Sr., are the parents of four. She serves on the commission's finance and safety committees and is former vice chairman of the Berrien County Democratic party and secretary of Berrien Women Democrats. She was area chairman for Red Cross and March of Dimes fund drives and chairman of the education committee for the Twin Cities NAACP.

New Kroger Store Opens On Nov. 13

A 43,000-square-foot-plus Kroger Foods Superstore will be opened at 9 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, with a big grand opening celebration in the Benton Square complex off M-139 near Napier Avenue, Benton Township, according to David A. Burt, Michigan marketing area vice president for Kroger.

Burt said the new store, 1850 M-139, will replace the existing Kroger store in Fairplain Plaza, which will be closed at 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12.

The new supermarket is joined under one roof with a 7,800 square-foot Revco Drug Center, expected to be opened soon. Other listed tenants to occupy space later are Panta-C Records and Stereo Shop, and Beneficial Finance Co., and MC Sporting Goods.

The Benton Square complex will cost an estimated $2.5 million, according to Benton Harbor Associates, the developing firm. Benton Harbor Associates is composed of brothers Edward and Raleigh Pinkelstein, Grand Rapids, owners of the land, and Weatherford-Walker, builders-developers, Southfield. General contractor is Schumacher Construction Co., Benton Harbor.

Kroger's Burt said the new supermarket will be stocked with more than 12,000 items, within four departments: grocery, meat, produce and delicatessen. Customers will have a selection of more than 120 varieties of fresh fruits and vegetables, according to Burt, and the store will offer an area for bulk produce for customers to select their produce in the quantity they want, like a farmers' market.

Burt said international foods, dietary products and gourmet selections are included in the grocery department, along with more than 1,000 frozen food items. There will be a wine department, and a plant shop.

The Kroger official said the meat department will offer all USDA Choice beef and Grade A chicken, along with pork, veal, lamb and seafood. He said package sizes or quantities will vary from two pork chops to a side of beef.

The store also will provide a bakery for a variety of items baked fresh in the store daily.

Burt said the decor features warm earth tones accented with rugged wooden beams in various areas.

"We tried to think of everything when designing this store to the extent of careful planning of energy usage. This store is equipped with a heat reclaiming system which utilizes wasted heat from refrigeration compressor motor to supply 75 per cent of the store's heating needs. We will also use low energy lighting. Instead of the regular fluorescent lights."

Burt said the store will be served by about 100 employees and will be managed by Terry Griggs, "a Kroger store manager with many years of experience."

Kroger at one time operated stores both at Fairplain Plaza and at the W. Main Street-Hwy-139 Drive area of Benton Harbor, the latter being opened in 1959, but since closed.

Burt said: "When our old Benton Harbor store was opened on June 18, 1959, it was more than adequate for the times, but consumers in the 1970's have different shopping needs and wants. This new kind of supermarket is designed to fulfill those expectations and provide the kind of shopping service they want."

Benton's Planners Will Meet Friday

The Benton Township Planning Commission has set a special meeting for 7 p.m. Friday to consider requests to review site plans for construction of a new K-Mart shopping center and Peoples State branch bank in the township.

Both the K-Mart center and the branch bank are planned in the vicinity of the proposed Orchards Mall (formerly referred to as Pipestone Mall.) The K-Mart center would be built on 12.4 acres of the total 350-acre development and the branch bank is planned to be built across Napier Avenue from the development, at the corner of Napier and Dowling avenues.

Under a new township ordinance, the planning commission must review site plans for developments over one acre, including plans for landscaping, setbacks and driveways, before a building permit will be issued. Both sites already have the proper zoning, according to Planning Commission Chairman James Benson.

Half Medic 1 Bad Debts Blamed On BH Residents

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

In its first six months of operation, Medic 1 Ambulance Service accumulated an estimated $11,000 in debts termed "uncollectible," with half the total owed by people living within the City of Benton Harbor.

And while Benton Harbor residents have piled up half the uncollectible debt, the city only represents 18.8 percent of the people served by Medic 1, according to a Community Emergency Service (CES) report.

The CES was formed by 10 Berrien municipalities to operate Medic 1. The ambulance company started operating on Feb. 24 of this year.

Figures on uncollectible debt were gathered from Isadore DiMaggio, CES secretary-treasurer, and James Bailey, Medic 1 manager.

DiMaggio said that at the end of August, $34,320 was owed to Medic 1 by ambulance patients. Of that total, only $21,655 was probably be paid, he said. The remaining $12,665 is termed uncollectible and, according to Bailey, those bills will be handed over to bill collection agencies.

Through August, $31,793 had been paid by ambulance patients, DiMaggio said. The tempo of Medic 1 collections, slow as the business began, is increasing now that long-awaited Medicaid and Medicare bills are being received, he said.

"Our goal is to collect 75 percent of receivables (debts)," DiMaggio said this week.

Dick Kiesel, CES chairman, agrees that the amount of bills due "is higher than I'd like to see it." Collection agencies working in commissions have been retained to try to decrease the amount of uncollectible debt to an "acceptable 25 percent," according to Kiesel.

Bailey makes collections for Medic 1. He said uncollectible debts are divided equally between the city of Benton Harbor and the other nine municipalities which are served by Medic 1.

DiMaggio explained that CES is a non-profit corporation. CES was formed to operate an ambulance service in the communities that formed CES, he said. Those communities are: Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Berrien Springs and the townships of Benton, St. Joseph, Royaltown, Sodas, Lincoln, Oronoko and Berrien.

In no cases do Medic 1 drivers or attendants try to collect money from patients.

"We're here to serve the people, and I don't think we can do that if we have attendants on the scene hounding patients about money," said Bailey.

Bailey also said he fears that if drivers and attendants were ordered to collect money on the spot "service might become congruent with his (the patient's) ability to pay."

At a recent St. Joseph Township board meeting DiMaggio, also township manager, outlined the problem of uncollectible debts, and Supervisor Orval Benson suggested collecting money from patients in the ambulance. Benson said attendants and drivers "shouldn't be ashamed" to collect money rightfully owed to their company.

Bailey said that patients only rarely offer to pay the attendants, "but if they pay voluntarily, that's OK." Patients transported on Medic 1 pay a base cost of $45, he said.

Medic 1 makes 12 runs a day, on the average, Bailey said. Once a day, on the average, a patient gives "totally fictitious" information to Medic 1 personnel. Bailey said of the debts incurred by people who give false names and addresses: "We write them off, rarely getting any money from them." Sometimes, the collection agency will do the necessary follow-up to find such patients, he added.

That one in 12 patients he about their name and address is "not surprising" to Bailey, who worked five years for one ambulance company in Kalamazoo before founding another Kalamazoo ambulance company in January of 1976. He said he managed both companies. Bailey moved here to manage Medic 1 when it started operating.

Contributing to what he estimates as one-third of the debts carried on the books as uncollectible is the fact that Medicaid and Medicare pay less than the base rate of $45.

Medicaid is a federal-state health care program for the needy, aged, blind and disabled and for low-income families with children. Medicare is the federal health care insurance program for people 65 and older and for the disabled.

The "prevailing rate" for ambulance service in Southwestern Michigan has been set by Medicare and Medicaid at $15, Bailey said.

Medicaid will pay $35 on a $45 bill, but Medicare pays only 80 percent of the prevailing rate, or $28 on a $45 bill.

Under Medicare rules, Medic 1 is allowed to try to collect the $7 difference between what they pay ($28) and the prevailing rate ($35) from the patient's health insurance or from Medicaid, Bailey explained. Medic 1 usually collects that $7 without much trouble, he said.

Medicaid and Medicare account for "65 to 70 percent of our business," Bailey said, explaining that the uncollectible $10 from such patients has a significant impact on the Medic 1 books.

"We accounted for this in figuring out the costs of Medic 1" before the service began operations, Bailey said.

When it comes to collecting from deadbeats who ignore billings and warning letters, accounts are turned over to collection agencies 60 days after the ambulance service was rendered.

Bailey said it's "a waste of time" to take most deadbeats to court. Most cases would have to be filed in small claims court.

(See back page, sec. 1, col. 1)

Ambulance Attendants Pass Tests

Four Medic 1 Ambulance Service attendants recently passed state examinations and received licenses as Advanced Emergency Medical Technicians, according to Medic 1 Manager James Bailey.

Bruce Balin, Chris Bennett, Mark Finchen and Kim Jeffery took the examination after completing training at Grand Valley State College, Allendale. The college reported.

They attended advanced emergency medical technician classes at Grand Valley for 22 weeks and accumulated 10 credit hours.

Family Given Music Honor

Annual Award

GIBSONBURG, Ohio (AP) — Joanne and Dean Niswander met in college music classes and have sung and played their way through 26 years of marriage. And now the Niswander family has been named "Amateur Music Family of the Year."

"They were chosen for the seventh annual award made by the American Music Conference, an organization dedicated to fostering music participation through a national search for a family that is representative of the nation's 39 million amateur musicians."

"They are truly representative of the thousands of families in our country who find that music is a tie to hold the family together and a means of giving satisfaction to themselves and to others," says Les Propp, president of AMC.

"Music is probably the one thing that preserved our sanity through raising a family of six children, all approximately two years apart in age," says Mrs. Niswander, who met her husband in music classes at Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio.

Among them, including the parents, the family plays 11 instruments: piano, trumpet, organ, flute, violin, viola, guitar, French horn, alto horn, cello and bassoon.

Their commitment to music is so great, admits Niswander, that he went on stage in his role of Nanka Do for a community production of "The Mikado" the night their oldest son was born.

Although the Niswanders live in Gibsonburg in the Toledo area now, much of their life was spent in Okemos, Mich., where they performed extensively for church, school, community organizations and clubs.

"Music was so much a part of our life that it was inevitable that the children grew up with music in and around them," says Mrs. Niswander, "and it's hard to tell how much is innate talent and how much environment."

"They each have gained much personal satisfaction and reward during their at-home school and years in school and church music groups," she says. "We have tried to make music a thing of enjoyment for them — encouraging and understanding their efforts, but not pressuring them to make it a vocation. We feel that music can enrich whatever life they choose, just as it has for my husband and me."

The three boys, Frederick "Dick," 24, Mark, 21, and Tom, 18, have all been awarded music scholarships by Western Michigan University.

Rick has moved on to Idaho State University and continues with his music activities despite the time he devotes to the ESI Student Senate, of which he was elected president.

Mark majored in violin at Western Michigan and Tom, who is studying there now, plays the French horn in the concert band and the alto horn in the marching band.

The three girls are also deeply involved in music. Joanne, 23, a first grade teacher, has sung in productions and choral all her life, as has her sister, Lee Ann, 18. Lee Ann will enter the University of Colorado in Denver this fall as a nursing student, but plans to continue to play her flute and guitar.

Kay, 16, the youngest, is active in high school, where she is active in band and orchestra.

"None of our family earns a living from music, but we derive a better life from it," says Mrs. Niswander, who is organist for her church and editor of a monthly newsletter for the chemical company for which her husband is general manager.

Although the younger family members are scattered now, they all came together at Christmas for a family tradition of 12 years — caroling for neighbors and friends, and giving a concert at church before Christmas Eve service.

World Community Day Celebration Set Nov. 11

Church Women United of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph will observe World Community Day Friday, Nov. 11, at First United Methodist Church, St. Joseph.

A salad luncheon will be served at noon and a program is planned at 1 p.m., in the sanctuary of the church. Theme this year is "Heart Change — Global Change."

Speaker will be Mrs. David

MRS. HOUSEMAN

(Margaret) Houseman of Grand Ledge. Mrs. Houseman is CWU chairman of Area IV.

She holds degrees in English literature and special education from the University of Michigan. While a student at U-M, she became associated with the Ecumenical Campus Center and served on the International Student Committee.

The Housemans moved to Benton Harbor in 1972 to manage a housing cooperative and recently moved to Grand Ledge, where Houseman is working with the State of Michigan Office of Services to the Aging. He facilitates the formation of food buying clubs and food cooperatives.

In 1975, the couple spent seven weeks traveling around the world to visit friends from the ECC.

Mrs. Houseman will serve as chairman of the State Assembly next year. She also serves as a half-time bookkeeper for the Substance Abuse coordinating agency for Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

The public is invited to the meeting and there is no admission charge. A nursery will be provided.

Chairman of the celebration is Mrs. Michael (Donna) Dumke. The committee includes Mrs. William (Pat) Gardner Jr., Mrs. Fred (Ruth) Schultz, Mrs. Franklin G. (Shirley) English, Mrs. Stanley (Mary) Goodell, Mrs. Gordon (Blanche) Adams, Mrs. C.W. (Beth) Runkel, Mrs. Ray (Maxine) Whitcomb and Mrs. Earle (Edna) Herriek. Mrs. Richard (Irene) Edinger will provide special music.

The celebration will conclude with a dedication of the gift certificates and clothing given by area churches.

The origin of World Community Day can be traced to the week of Pearl Harbor when the constituting convention of the United Council of Church Women met in Atlantic City.

"As the nations were flying apart, the women were coming together," said Amy Welcher who became the first president of the interdenominational Council which was the forerunner of Church Women United. One of the first acts of this newly formed Council was to inaugurate a day of peace in 1942. The next year this observance became known as World Community Day and was concerned with the price of an enduring peace.

The theme for this year's World Community Day, "Heart Change — Global Change," focuses on reaching out with changed hearts to the unfree people throughout the community, throughout the nation, throughout the world by striving for unity and world peace.

World Community Day is more than just one day of special emphasis for Church Women United. Through a series of Bible study sessions and workshops, women in local communities will concentrate on reaching some consensus on the meaning of justice.

They will deal with such issues as unfair housing practices, unequal educational opportunities, voter registration, employment discrimination and cutbacks in needed services such as child care for working mothers.

In the context of international concerns, they will study issues of inequity such as sex discrimination, exploitation of cheap labor, population control and world hunger.

The offerings on both World Community Day and World Day of Prayer, together with the gift certificates, support the ongoing work of Intercontinental Mission, the channel for Church Women United to foster global change through funding of self-help and development programs.

Grants are made to meet the needs of people in six continents in the following areas: spiritual growth, community and family service, socio-economic development, education, health programs, human rights, justice, peace building, women's concerns, and hunger in the United States and globally.

In addition, annual grants enable nine women's Christian colleges in Asia to pioneer in education for women, helping them to develop their full potential and prepare them for national and international responsibilities.

Throughout the year, but especially on World Community Day, church women purchase gift certificates to respond with material aid to human beings who are in need of immediate relief from the ravages of war, famine, poverty and natural disasters; child development and maternal health programs; training and development projects involving women; and timely help "where needed most" in response to emerging opportunities.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Penny-Pincher On Binge

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a perfectionist when it comes to money. Hank insists that I give him receipts for every nickel I spend. If my "books" don't balance, I really catch it. My purse was snatched two years ago and I didn't know exactly how much money I had in it. Well — I am still getting lectured over my stupidity.

I know Hank will never change. I'm writing about another problem. Every five or six weeks, he goes on a beer-bender, gets stinking drunk and starts calling up Army buddies all over the country. He phones people on the East Coast where it's three hours later — wakes them up out of a sound sleep and they hang up on him. I can tell from his end of the conversation that most of the people he calls don't even know who he is. Our phone bill was $179 last month.

It infuriates me that Hank is such a penny-pincher when it comes to me, yet he throws out money we need for necessities on crazy phone calls that he can't even remember the next day.

What can I do about this? — Just Plain Mad

Dear J.P.M.: Maybe it will help if you save the receipts of the phone bills and wave them in front of his eyes when he begins to make the calls. It just might suggest something — assuming of course he can see.

Speechless

Dear Ann Landers: We will leave it to you. If you say we are petty and small-minded we'll accept it. Here is the situation: About two months ago I wrote to my daughter-in-law in Lexington, Ky., and asked her if she would please send us some snapshots of the three grandchildren. (We haven't seen them in two years and little ones do grow up so fast.) This morning two dozen snapshots arrived with this note attached: "Will you please mark on the back of these pictures the ones you like and return them to me. I will send you the negatives so you can have some made for yourselves." What is your opinion of a daughter-in-law who would do such a thing? — Speechless in Danville, Ky.

Dear Danville: My opinion is the same as yours — and I don't have any words either.

Wedding Band?

Dear Ann Landers: Jerry and I are going to marry in December. I want him to wear a wedding ring. My father always wore one and I loved the way it looked on his hand.

ANN LANDERS

Jerry is fighting it. He says it means nothing — that most of the men who work with him are living proof. He claims the ones with the wedding rings run around the most and act the least married. He also says single women find wedding rings on men "sex" — sort of a challenge. They go after them guys just to see if they can make the grade.

I don't want to make a big deal over this but I must say we've had some pretty hot arguments already. What is your opinion? — Little Nell

Dear Nell: I believe most men who wear wedding rings do so because their wives want them to. Rarely is it the groom's idea.

More than one airline stewardess has told me they meet a lot of male passengers without wedding rings but they can see the white mark (during summer sun-tan season) where the ring had been. So — use your own judgment, honey....

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11945, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a very annoying and embarrassing problem. I can't find the courage to discuss it with my doctor.

I'm 60 and in good health. The best way to describe my problem is, if you ever heard a horse run after drinking water (sure you have) then you know the rumbling and grumbling sounds of my stomach.

With me it is not painful but annoying, as I work with people. I cannot accept a dinner invitation for this reason. Usually after I eat or have a cup of coffee then I have these stomach spasms, as I will call it, which last a half hour at a time. This occurs three to four times a day. It is on the left side below the ribs.

DEAR READER — You have borborygmi. The means rumbling noises produced by the rhythmic contractions of your intestines. And everyone has it. If you didn't, your intestines would be silent — paralyzed — and you would have an intestinal obstruction.

The difference is that the loudness of the sound is usually such that a doctor has to use a stethoscope to hear the frequent gurgling sounds. In almost everyone at some time the sound is loud enough that you can hear it. In a few unfortunate people like yourself it is so loud constantly that it becomes annoying — mostly to the person who has the noise.

There are limited things you can do. Many people have these when they are hungry; eating a small amount will calm the overactive digestive system and the sounds go away. Since yours occurs after eating that might not help you. You can try it though. Try something bland such as bread and a small glass of milk.

I would like to assure you that normal people can have the same problem you experience and it does not mean that you have any serious health problem. Since you have no symptoms and otherwise think you are in good health it just means an overactive digestive system. I might add that nervous tension may make the situation worse.

If you find that keeping your digestive system content with more frequent feeding helps, then you may be able to eat a small amount before you go out and not be embarrassed after dinner.

Coloma Book Fairs

COLOMA — Book fairs will be held at Coloma Elementary and Middle schools during the week of Nov. 8-11, according to Jocelyn Crandall, Coloma schools media director.

The fair is open to any parent residing in the Coloma school district and all proceeds will be used to purchase materials for the media centers, according to Mrs. Crandall.

Senior Citizens Fair

CASSOPOLIS — Cass County Council on Aging will hold a senior citizens handicraft fair Thursday, Nov. 17, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the United Presbyterian Church in Cassopolis.

Ladies Guild of the church will serve refreshments and a noon lunch.

The fair includes handmade, baked or grown items, including ceramics, jewelry, quilts, afghans, knitted and crocheted articles, dolls, toys, beads and plastics.

Those interested in exhibiting may contact the council.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in 10 days before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

CUDDLY DOLL: Kelly Services, Inc. of Southfield, Mich. is distributing about 35,000 "Kelly Girl" dolls to business people around country in a promotion effort that's not exactly thrilling some secretaries and women's groups. (AP Laserphoto)

'Kelly Girl' Dolls Draw Feminist Fire

By MARTY HAIR
SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A firm that provides temporary office help is sending about 35,000 cuddly "Kelly Girl" rag dolls to business people around the country, to the consternation of some secretaries and women's groups.

"They're talking about women as dolls and playthings, and that raises a lot of connotations," said Linda Miller, president of the Detroit chapter of the National Organization for Women.

But the people at world headquarters of Kelly Services Inc. say they're "shocked" that anyone would be offended by the pinup-style promotion.

"When a company goes to the extent of doing something like this, they certainly don't want to offend anyone," said Ann Reynolds, public relations director at the company's main office.

Kelly Services has 350 offices in this country, as well as some overseas, that arrange temporary help. One division specializes in office help. Most of these employees are women, but there are some men. Ms. Reynolds said no one who works for Kelly Services is called a "Kelly girl."

She emphasized that the dolls are the innocent rag variety, not sophisticated or curvaceous older types.

"This doll is not at all curvy," Ms. Reynolds said. "We couldn't have anything like that in mind. That would be foolish business."

Kelly sent letters to its top customers last month, signed by its president, Terence Adderley. The letter told of a young woman who took her old rag doll to college with her.

Adderley said he was sending the rag dolls as "a little something special," because "these dolls have always been favorites and always will be."

The dolls are now being hand-delivered to the letter recipients by local Kelly representatives. The letter explains that a separate firm is trying to sell the "Kelly Girl" dolls. Kelly Services bought the ones used in the promotion, according to Ms. Reynolds.

Some feminists contended the message was filled with sexual overtones and double meanings. Its real message, they said, is that secretaries are toys to be played with.

"I think it was a really asinine thing to do," said one legal secretary at a Detroit firm. "It's an insult to women. It's really disgusting."

Another NOW staffer added, "I'm sure most feminists would agree that sending dolls to advertise women's services isn't very businesslike."

Ms. Miller said the local NOW chapter has drafted a letter blasting the dolls that will be sent to Adderley and the national NOW headquarters.

One woman, an office manager who hires temporary clerical staffers at a Detroit firm, said she received one of the letters from Adderley and first thought, "Oh, that's kinda cute." But when I started thinking about it, it began to bug me. I'd be very surprised if they sent a boy doll."

Ms. Reynolds said that Kelly Services has had no complaints about the dolls.

Bailey's Condition Fair After Surgery

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Surgeons say they removed a cancerous growth from William H. Bailey, imprisoned Rhode Island politician, and that there was no evidence the cancer had spread further.

Bailey was listed in fair condition after Wednesday's operation in which doctors removed the left half of his colon. He will remain at University of Michigan Hospital for a week to nine days.

"Everything looked excellent inside except for the tumor," said Dr. Jay Harness, director of health care for the state Department of Corrections.

Carter Opposes Lifting Wage Lid

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is resisting a congressional move to let persons over age 65 earn as much as they wish without losing some of their Social Security money.

NEW JOB: Ronald L. Sisson, native of St. Joseph and son of Mr. and Mrs. Darford Sisson, 2407 Lakeview, St. Joseph, has joined Haworth, Inc., in Holland as vice president of manufacturing. He has been with Clark Equipment Co. in Jackson for 17 years, most recently as area manager. He holds mechanical engineering degree from University of Michigan and master's in business administration from Michigan State University.

Joseph A. Califano, secretary of health, education and welfare, said Wednesday that only 1.3 million of the 22 million U.S. retirees would benefit from the proposal.

Califano's protest was prompted by a move in Congress to eliminate the $3,000 ceiling on wages that Americans over 65 can earn without having their Social Security checks reduced.

He said the legislation would serve only "a privileged minority" while placing new burdens on working people.

Last week, the House passed a bill that would phase out the ceiling by 1982. The Senate began considering its version of the Social Security bill Wednesday.

The Senate Finance Committee proposed raising the ceiling to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979. But Sen. Dan Rostenkowski, and other senators plan to offer an amendment to eliminate the ceiling by 1982.

In a letter attacking the amendment, Califano told senators it would "benefit most the wealthier citizens among our elderly."

Advocates of the change argue that it would reward elderly persons for their industry and help low-income retirees to keep pace with inflation.

They also contend that if more people over 65 worked, the additional taxes paid would more than offset the extra $3 billion a year that the Social Security Trust Fund would have to pay in benefits if the wage ceiling were eliminated.

The Social Security Administration says the 1.3 million retirees who would be affected include 800,000 persons whose benefits were reduced this year because they earned more than $3,000 and another half million who lost all benefits. Some 54 percent of the 1.3 million earned more than $10,000 and 17 percent earned more than $20,000.

There is no ceiling on earnings by persons 72 or older, who represent 11.3 million of the retirees. Persons between 65 and 72 lost $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 earned.

That formula makes it possible for a retired couple with the maximum Social Security benefits of $855 a month to earn nearly $19,000 a year before losing all their benefits.

The average retired couple with benefits of $400 a month can earn up to $12,000 before all benefits are lost. Likewise, the average person with benefits of $241 a month can earn up to $8,616 before losing all Social Security.

Wounded Sheriff Will Recover, Officials Say

BALDWIN, Mich. (AP) — Lake County Sheriff Lennie Deur was in stable but improved condition after being shot in the chest while trying to serve papers committing a woman to a mental hospital.

Hospital officials said they were optimistic Deur would recover from the shooting. He suffered some spinal damage, said a spokeswoman for Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids.

Meanwhile, the woman accused in the shooting remained in jail under $250,000 bond.

Slaying Trial Begins To Unfold In Midland

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A onetime Northwood Institute football player will take the witness stand and testify that the cool he is accused of killing was alive and well the last time he saw her, his lawyer says.

But the prosecution said Wednesday that Ronald Molter II, 21, of Monroe, has told three conflicting versions of what happened after he left a party May 7 with Marilyn L. Goodman, 18, of Mount Prospect, Ill. Miss Goodman was later found strangled to death.

The opening day of Molter's first-degree murder trial was taken up with opening statements by the defense and prosecution and early testimony linking Molter with Miss Goodman at the off-campus party.

Molter's lawyer, Harold S. Fried, said the former football defensive back will testify how he met the Northwood freshman at the party and how they talked about his new car. He will describe the ride he took with Miss Goodman, how he took her back to the party, how he went to several restaurants for late snacks and how he awoke the next morning and returned to Monroe, Fried said.

Ruby Chapman Nelson, 41, of Idlewild, waived examination Wednesday and was arraigned in Midland County Circuit Court on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. The charge carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Her lawyer, Henry Dongvillo, made no plea but asked the court to send Mrs. Nelson to the state Center for Forensic Psychiatry at Ypsilanti for tests to determine if she is mentally competent to be tried. Judge Charles Wickens agreed to the tests.

Officials said Mrs. Nelson would remain in the county jail of this small Western Michigan town until she can be transferred to Ypsilanti for testing.

Deur underwent three hours of surgery before dawn Wednesday.

Authorities said Mrs. Nelson surrendered 1½ hours after Deur was shot.

Blood In Truck Is Human Type

Blood found in the cab of a pickup truck owned by Alvin L. McCarver, accused as a drug dealer, is of human origin, according to state police from the Benton Harbor Post.

Detective Sgt. Jerry Clark said this morning investigators are awaiting results of further tests at the state police crime laboratory in Holland which they hope will indicate if the blood is of the same type as McCarver's.

Clark said the preliminary test results increase the possibility that McCarver, who was last seen Saturday night, may have been the victim of foul play.

McCarver's truck was found Sunday morning in Baroda Township with several apparent bullet holes in the windshield and a small amount of blood inside the cab.

McCarver's truck was found about a mile from his home the next morning.

McCarver, who was free on bond, was scheduled to appear in court Monday for arraignment on two drug charges stemming from his May 17 arrest by Metro narcotics agents.

McCarver, who lives at 1810 Lemon Creek Road, Baroda township, pleaded innocent to three charges of delivery of PCP (an animal tranquilizer) and one charge of possession with intent to deliver PCP at his arraignment in circuit court June 13.

Clark described McCarver as six feet tall, weighing 300 pounds, with a full beard, receding brown hair, and a medium complexion. He is 35. Persons with information concerning McCarver's whereabouts are asked to contact the Benton Harbor Post.

Ex-City Manager Will Get $2,200 In BH Settlement

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Former Benton Harbor City Manager James Peoples Jr. said he will be paid $2,200 by the City of Benton Harbor in an out-of-court settlement of suits filed by the city against Peoples and by Peoples against the city.

Under the settlement, the city dropped its suit for $2,408 and Peoples dropped his countersuit for $4,053, according to Berrien District Judge Hugh Black. Black dismissed the suits yesterday, he said.

According to Black, attorneys for the parties stated in court yesterday that the terms of the settlement wouldn't be disclosed. Peoples, contacted this morning, explained the settlement and called $2,200 "more than half of what I had coming."

The city filed its suit seeking $2,408 from Peoples and Donna Cooke in October of 1976. The suit claimed Peoples, also city finance director, refused demands to stop payment of that sum to Mrs. Cooke. Payments should have been stopped, the suit claimed, because she was "voluntarily absent" from work as legislative coordinator for the mayor-commission office from May 18 until the commission abolished her job Aug. 9.

The incident followed the recall of former Mayor Charles F. Joseph.

In his countersuit, Peoples claimed the city commission failed to pay him a $4,053 bonus promised Aug. 27, 1976. On that date, Peoples claimed, the commission accepted his resignation and voted to give him a bonus of two months pay, prorated at his manager's salary of $24,500 annually. The bonus amounted to $4,053, Peoples said.

Peoples, of 1121 Salem Ave., Benton Harbor, is now operating an accounting business and a seasonal ice cream stand, he said.

Benton Harbor City Attorney Yvonne Hughes Chandler said this morning she wouldn't comment on the settlement. City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said he was out of town yesterday and wasn't aware a settlement had been reached.

On Monday, Black said he granted a motion from Mrs. Cooke's attorney, Earl Washington of Chicago, and dismissed the city's case against her. Washington sought dismissal because the city is seeking to recover the money in an action before the state department of labor, Black said.

Dismissal of the suit against Mrs. Cooke apparently prompted the other parties to settle out of court. By stipulation, the claim and counterclaim were dismissed with prejudice, meaning the charges can't be brought again, Black said. The case against Mrs. Cooke was dismissed without prejudice and, depending upon the outcome of the department of labor hearing, might be brought again, said Black.

Representing the city was Attorney Chandler. St. Joseph Attorney Paul Taglia represented Peoples.

Killing Of Husband Called Self-Defense

to prove premeditation.

Feminists, who rallied in support of Mrs. Hughes, hope the case will result in a landmark decision for the rights of women abused. Some of them now say they are uncomfortable with the temporary insanity defense, but that it is not incompatible with the self-defense argument.

Greydanus said during a telephone interview Thursday that he would not sacrifice his client for the possibility of a precedent-setting decision.

"I'm concerned about setting her free," he said. "I'm not concerned about setting a precedent."

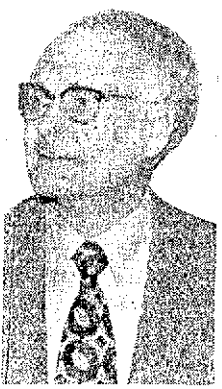

Blunt also said the "urgent voice" Mrs. Hughes said told her to set the fire wasn't a "true auditory hallucination," but rather the voice within a sane person who feels mixed emotions about an action.

Earlier Wednesday, Dr. Anne M. Seiden, a Chicago psychiatrist, said Mrs. Hughes was "acutely psychotic" and that her life was "a vicious circle" in which she faced beatings if she stayed with her ex-husband and suffered guilt feelings if she abandoned him.

Asked whether Mrs. Hughes could have planned the slaying, Seiden said, "It wouldn't make sense to call that planning any more than it would to call what someone does in sleepwalking planned."

She said the woman was "excessively compassionate" but "after a while she couldn't sustain her resistance" to the abuse.

Medic 1 Seeking To Collect Debts

where "all you want is a determination of what is owed, but no cash." He said it's cheaper to use collection agencies.

Merchants Credit Bureau, a St. Joseph firm, keeps half of what it collects, and L.C. Systems, a national collection agency with a Lansing office, keeps 28 percent of what it collects, according to Bailey.

Bailey said that nationally, ambulance companies collect a "not very encouraging" 67 percent of debts owed them.

He believes that with the collection agencies, and with drivers getting more complete information about patients for future billing, Medic 1 can do better than the national average.

Bailey added that Medic 1 is always ready to make special arrangements to accept time payments.

DiMaggio has suggested that one way to improve collection would be to have local government from the 10 municipalities become involved in collecting bills due Medic 1.

Ex-St. Joe Banker Hale At Age 100

For Fred W. Tebbe, Oct. 7th was the start of his second century rather than the anniversary of having attained the first.

This is the essence of a letter written Oct. 23 to his long-time St. Joseph friends, Lamont and Margaret Tufts, of 910 Greenwood Ave.

The letter enclosed a clipping from News-Press, of Glendale, Calif., his retirement residence, detailing a wide-ranging neighborhood birthday party for the former St. Joseph banker and businessman.

Tufts, more familiarly known as "Tuffy," has been a friend of Tebbe since the latter hired him in 1929 as a teller in the old Union State Bank in St. Joseph. Tebbe was cashier at the time.

Tebbe was born in New Orleans on Oct. 7, 1877. He worked in his father's grocery store until he was 19 when the parent died from stomach cancer. He told the News-Press reporter covering his birthday party that "everyone thought it was yellow fever and tried to quarantine the house."

He moved to the farming area east from Benton Harbor following his father's death to work as a hired hand for a man who later would become his brother-in-law.

Surviving members of the Peters family who in older days farmed extensively around Twelve Corners and in Hagar township cannot recall today the brother-in-law's first name. One partially identifies it as Bide, either a contraction or mispronunciation of the correct name.

Before the turn of this century, Tebbe left farming to hire on as a messenger at the old Benton Harbor State Bank, now a part of the Intercity Bank.

Within a few years he was promoted to a teller's station and in 1902 he was married to Lottie Peters.

He left the Benton Harbor State for a similar job in another Benton Harbor bank and some time prior to World War I MOVED TO THE Union State in St. Joseph.

Tebbe became president of the bank on Dec. 22, 1928, shortly after J. Ogden Wells committed suicide.

Wells was president of the bank and also of the Cooper-Wells Co., producer of the nationally known brand of Ironclad hosiery. Tebbe stepped into the presidency of Cooper-Wells in the ensuing January.

The 1931 banking crisis struck early in the Twin Cities. In an effort to protect depositors in the Union State, its assets and liabilities were transferred to the Commercial National Bank.

This stopgap measure lasted only a few months and before the year was out the Commercial National was put in receivership.

Not too long after that void had arisen, the stockholders in Cooper-Wells felt compelled to sell their plants in St. Joseph and Alabama at a substantial sacrifice to a Chicago syndicate.

The two reverses put Tebbe out of a job and wiped him out financially.

He moved his family to the Glendale area where he joined the sheriff's department. He took retirement from that endeavor in 1950.

Since then he has become a "Mr. Glendale," maintaining an active interest in its civic and political affairs.

The activity comes naturally to Tebbe.

While at the Union State he served on the old St. Joseph board of aldermen which the commission-manager form of government replaced in 1928.

Mrs. Tebbe, as one local distant relative recalls, died about 20 years ago. She and her husband had five children.

Surviving are John, at San Bernardino, Calif., Mrs. Robert (Mary) Smith, at San City, Ariz., and Joseph, in Texas.

Tebbe last visited the Twin Cities in August of 1958.

In revealing his Oct. 23 letter from his ex-boss, Tufts remarked, "He looked great then. His letters show he is still in great shape. I have always looked up to him as one of St. Joseph's great men."

Senate Getting New Federal Criminal Law Package

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in a decade, Congress is making headway in the arduous task of rewriting some 3,000 federal criminal laws dating back to 1789.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved the criminal code package 12-2 Wednesday, sending it to the Senate floor.

Passage of the legislation is unlikely before next year. It has yet to be considered by the House Judiciary Committee, and a full Senate vote is not expected this year.

"I am very hopeful that the full Senate will act favorably on a new code as one of the first orders of business next year," Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said after the committee voted to recommend passage.

The proposed criminal code contains new protections for rape victims, marijuana smokers and reporters, and tougher sentences for some lawbreakers.

It would curb the power of federal judges to jail reporters for violating gag orders restricting news coverage, providing the gag order is found unconstitutional on appeal.

The legislation also would reduce penalties and expunge criminal records for possession of small amounts of marijuana, and would shield rape victims from courtroom questioning about their past sexual conduct.

It would provide mandatory minimum sentences, with no parole, for trafficking in hard drugs and for using a firearm in the commission of a crime.

The code would set up a commission to establish guidelines for sentencing, in an effort to eliminate wide disparities in the length of prison terms for the same offense.

Voting against the bill were Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., who has criticized some of its provisions as dangerous relaxations of the law, and Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., who has said parts of it are too severe.

Shortly before the final vote, the committee adopted an amendment making it a federal crime for a parent who does not have custody to take his or her own child from the parent who was awarded custody. Parents generally are exempt from federal kidnapping prosecution now.

The committee action was accompanied by tributes to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., one of the major architects of the measure. McClellan has been seriously ill and unable to attend the panel's sessions. He had worked on the bill for more than 10 years.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-

Mass., who joined McClellan in sponsorship of the measure this year, said he felt a "great sense of debt" to the Arkansas senator.

Kennedy, a liberal, and McClellan, a conservative, forged a compromise which avoided much of the harsh criticism McClellan's proposals encountered in the last Congress.

Nevertheless, many of the bill's features, including its major overhaul of sentencing procedures, still face stiff opposition from civil liberties organizations.

"It's improved, but not enough," said Jay Miller of the American Civil Liberties Union.

IN TRANSMISSIONS U.S. Scrutinizing Ford Car 'Defects'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some two million Ford Motor Co. cars are coming under scrutiny by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for possible safety defects in automatic transmissions.

The agency said Wednesday that 31 accidents, one death and 14 injuries have been reported as a result of the defect.

John Eckhold, Ford's director of automotive safety, said the company "has no reason to believe" that there are safety defects in the transmissions.

NHTSA administrator Joan Claybrook said the probe covered certain 1973 through 1978 Ford passenger cars.

"When the shifting lever is placed in the park position, vibration from a running engine or a slammed door can cause the transmission to jump into reverse gear," the agency said. "If the driver has left the vehicle, it could move backward by itself, causing accidents, injuries or property damage."

Involved in the investigation are an estimated two million Ford, Mercury and Lincoln cars that have automatic transmission levers mounted on the steering column and have 351 cubic inch and larger engines.

At Ford, Eckhold said the agency was told last month that Ford had found an unrelated problem involving 3,900 recently-produced automatic transmissions.

Eckhold said dealers were told to inspect and repair cars with the suspect transmissions, which might contain an improperly heat-treated part that could keep the parking gears from engaging.

PBB Burial Site's OK -- If It's Lined With Clay

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials are pondering whether to accept a court ruling which opens an Osceola County site for burial of PBB-contaminated cattle — but under costly precautions.

State officials can use the burial site if they line it with 20 feet of clay. But Department of Natural Resources officials say that could cost some $1.5 million, and they are talking at going ahead with the burial under those conditions.

Officials may seek permission to use the site without clay, installing a cheaper lining to protect against leakage of PBB.

The go-ahead to use the site came in a court order signed Tuesday by attorneys for the state and Osceola County and by Osceola Circuit Judge Allen Miller.

Miller issued an injunction Sept. 29 against using the site unless it was lined with clay. The official order lifts that injunction and clears the use of the site if the state puts clay under, over and alongside the animal carcasses.

Up to 5,000 animals may be buried at the 2.2-acre site near Min under a new state law which lowers the permitted level of polychlorinated biphenyl — PBB — found in dairy cattle going to slaughter. If cows exceed the limit, they are to be destroyed, with their owners reimbursed, with the state disposing of the carcasses.

Famous heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey performed aneurysm operation on Lombardo's aorta Sept. 23. Lombardo was discharged Oct. 18 but re-entered the hospital a week ago. (AP Laserphoto)

Stolen Truck Complaint Draws Quick Response

Police seized a pickup truck early today some 20 minutes after it was reported stolen and arrested a Benton Harbor man.

Arrested by Coloma Township officers on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants was William W. Frazier, 33, of 427 Packard St., officers said. He also was booked at the Berrien County Jail for investigation of a charge of unlawfully driving away a vehicle, according to Benton Harbor police.

Benton Harbor police said a 1974 Ford pickup truck owned by Charles Coulton, of 620 Thresher, Benton Harbor, was reported stolen from a parking place near the intersection of Territorial Road and Second Street at 1:30 a.m. today.

City officers said they received word from Coloma Township police at 2:10 a.m. that a motorist arrested on Riverside Road west of Coloma had been driving a truck matching a description broadcast by Benton Harbor police.

Berrien Sheriff's officers reported a Bainbridge

Township farmer told them 90 small fruit trees valued at a total of $1,000 were chopped down by vandals armed with a hatchet or an axe.

Deputy Dan Gustafson said Rodney Winkel, of Route 2, Territorial Road, reported the last cherry trees, all between three and five years old, were located in a field on North Branch Road, Gustafson said.

The theft was believed to have occurred sometime in the past three weeks, according to police.

Police Roundup

that dryness of the felled trees indicated they were probably cut down about four days before Winkel discovered the damage Wednesday.

Berrien Sheriff's officers reported Lawrence Stover, of Route 1, Hinckman Road, Oronoko Township, said a chain saw and other tools valued at $365 were stolen from a shed located on Lennon Creek Road, also in Oronoko Township.

Deputies said the theft was believed to have occurred late last weekend.

St. Joseph Township police said Fred Neuhauer, of 2130 Lenora Drive, Lincoln Township, reported a six horsepower outboard motor valued at $100 was stolen from his boat moored at Whispering Willows Marina, Niles Road. The theft was believed to have occurred sometime in the past three weeks, according to police.

Benton Harbor police reported Johnnie McCormick, of 691 E. Vineyard, told them his .410 shotgun valued at $170 was stolen from the home of Rochelle Kirkland, 518 Catalpa. Louis Gibbs of 1121, told city police a CB radio valued at $100 was stolen from his car while the auto was parked at Benton Harbor High School earlier this week.

Benton Township police reported three thefts Wednesday including: —A CB radio valued at $260 from an auto owned by James Burton, of 646 Heck Court, while the car was parked on the 1100 block of Highland Avenue.

—A tape player and four speakers valued at $130 from an auto owned by Jeffrey Benton, of 670 Manitou, St. Joseph Township, while the car was parked at Burger King Restaurant, M-139.

—A television valued at $50 from the office of Crawford Auto Sales, 1326 Territorial Road.

RE-ELECTED: Mayor Margaret Hance easily won re-election to a second term in this week's primary election in Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Hance received 61.2 percent of the vote and crushed her three challengers in every section of the city. (AP Wirephoto)

Congress OKs Gas Pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has congressional approval on his decision to push for an Alaska natural gas pipeline, but major issues must be settled before construction starts.

And the biggest issue is who is going to pay for the $10 billion pipeline, which Carter says should be financed privately.

INCIDENT REPORTED AT NILES Hoosier Police Officer Arrested

NILES — An off-duty but uniformed Roseland (Ind.) police lieutenant was arrested here early Wednesday for allegedly pointing a pistol at two people and spraying one of them with tear gas.

Niles Township police said Lt. John Stonewall Jackson Ritz, 51, was arrested after two employees of Shula's Night Club reported a man wearing a police uniform had pointed a revolver at them and sprayed one of them.

Police said the incident occurred when a man driving on US-31 apparently became angered when a car containing the two employees pulled in front of his privately-owned car from the night club parking lot and then drove back into the parking lot through another driveway.

The club is on US-31 just south of Niles. Roseland is a small community a short distance from the state line in Indiana also along US-31.

Police said Ritz was arraigned later Wednesday in Niles Fifth District Court on two charges of assault with a deadly weapon. The court reported Ritz demanded a preliminary examination on the charge and was ordered held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Police identified the two employees as Robert Waller, 24, Niles, and David Lynch, 19, South Bend.

According to police, Lynch reported he was sprayed when he ran to the night club after the man with the gun ordered Waller and Lynch from their car.

William Heinenburg, Roseland police chief, said Ritz had been suspended from duty without pay pending the outcome of court proceedings.

The Roseland chief said that while Ritz was in uniform at the time, he was not on duty.

Chief Heinenburg said Ritz was returning to Indiana after going to the state police post at Niles to pick up a report that involved the Roseland department. Heinenburg said Ritz was in his personal auto, had not been ordered to pickup the report and that the report could have been obtained from state police later in the day.

Police said that while both

Man Convicted Of Manslaughter

A Benton Township man who went to trial in Decrien Circuit Court on charges of murder and assault with intent to murder was convicted Wednesday of two lesser charges.

Jurors in Judge William S. White's court deliberated about two hours before convicting Norman Scott Rodgers, 32, of 384 Linden Ave., of manslaughter and assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

Rodgers remained jailed without bond to await sentencing of up to 15 years in prison on the manslaughter conviction and 10 years imprisonment on the assault charge.

The charges stemmed from a shooting incident Aug. 16 that left one man dead and another wounded in the arm. Killed was Chester Tucker, 27, of 788 Waukena Ave., Benton Harbor, who died of a gunshot wound to the chest. James Wade, 26, of 1167 McAllister Ave., Benton Harbor, was shot through the arm, but has since recovered.

Both were standing on the front porch of 1067 McAllister with several other people when they were wounded by Rodgers, who was standing in the street firing a rifle. The defense during the trial claimed Rodgers had a mental impairment, and therefore lacked the necessary criminal intent to commit the crimes.

Opposing counsel in the two-day trial were St. Joseph attorney David Peterson and Prosecutor John Smolanka.

Anti-Abortion Bill Founders In House

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of a House committee that voted down a bill cutting off state Medicaid payments for abortions says the issue still might reach the House.

The House Social Services and Youth committee narrowly defeated the bill Wednesday. But the committee's leader, Rep. Rosetta Ferguson, D-Detroit, said the measure isn't dead yet.

"I'm just sorry the bill didn't pass," said Mrs. Ferguson, who strongly opposes abortions.

Although the bill was defeated, the committee can decide to reconsider its vote. Also, the House could vote to remove the bill from committee, although such a "discharge motion" is rare and hardly ever successful.

Before the vote was taken, members of a church group gave a red rose to each committee member. A spokesman for the group said the roses "were meant to symbolize the rights of the unborn."

The federal government has cut off funding for abortions under Medicaid, but Michigan is continuing to pay for the operation out of general Medicaid funds for physician services.

The House also passed a package of bills authorizing the state to suspend or revoke the licenses of various health care professionals upon conviction of fraud.

The package, which won unanimous approval in the Senate, now goes to the govern-nor for his signature.

The bills would permit various state boards in the Department of Licensing and Regulation to deny, revoke or suspend licenses of doctors, dentists or others if they are convicted of fraud in obtaining medical fees or payments.

Phone Bug Curbs Not Dead Yet

By ROB WILSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The sponsor of a bill prohibiting telephone eavesdropping by most employers says he's going to try again to have the measure passed. The legislation was narrowly defeated on a 54-46 vote in the House on Wednesday. It takes a majority of the 110-member chamber — or 56 votes — to pass a bill.

The bill would restrict snooping by everyone except police agencies and telephone companies. Phone companies would be allowed to continue monitoring only on a restricted basis in which both parties are aware they're being listened to. Rep. Mark Clodfelter, the sponsor of the legislation, said after the vote was taken that he was "hopeful" the bill would pass on a reconsideration vote.

Clodfelter, a Flint Democrat, blamed the measure's defeat on the absence of several Democrats who favor the legislation. Two such lawmakers — Reps. Perry Billard of Ann Arbor and Dennis Hertel of Detroit — were absent. The measure came under sharp debate before the vote was taken.

"We're talking about civil rights, but sometimes I think we can go too far with these civil rights," said Rep. Gerrit Hasper, D-Muskegon. "I think it's a bad bill." Rep. Ernest Nash, R-Dimondale, argued that protections offered under the measure already are covered in other laws.

"The bill isn't needed," he said. Clodfelter disagreed, saying: "The practice of monitoring is widespread and raises serious questions about our ability to protect the privacy of citizens in this state."

The measure has been opposed by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Michigan Press Association. Both argue that snooping provides an effective method of training new employees to be courteous and informative over the phone. The press association says the monitoring is conducted only in the classified advertising sections of newspapers, and is not practiced in news or editorial sections.

Drivers Ed Cost Rises

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The cost of driver education in Michigan's public schools was up 7.3 percent last year, according to the state Board of Education. Officials said the main reason for the increase was boosts in gasoline prices and insurance costs. In addition, many districts must lease cars previously loaned them, officials said. The total cost of the programs was nearly $11.4 million, for 174,707 students.

Jimmy's White House Bomb Sniffers' Howls Not Political Comment

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every time President Carter holds a formal news conference, the bomb-sniffing dogs at the White House set up a howl.

The animals presumably find no fault with Carter's question-and-answer sessions. They do object to television cameras armed with video tape.

Before each news conference, the room in which Carter meets with reporters is cleared so Secret Service agents and the dogs, assigned to the uniformed Executive Protective Service, can search for contraband, most particularly bombs.

It seems video tape smells the same as a bomb to the dozen German shepherd dogs recruited last year to help protect the president. The animals are reported to be proficient at sniffing, tracking and attacking. They may now have to be schooled in the distinction between explosives and tape.

Incidentally, several White House reporters swear they have seen the canines sporting official-looking pussies, complete with their pictures in color, hanging from their collars. A Secret Service spokesman insists pussies have not been issued to the dogs.

"It's my understanding that was simply a joke," spokesman John Warner says.

It takes a brave man to schedule an Oktoberfest featuring root beer. Small wonder the gods rained on Carter's back yard both days set aside last week for a staff picnic that bore the questionable label Oktoberfest.

Some 600 employees of the White House and the Executive Office of the President paid $3 each for the privilege of drinking root beer and eating sauerkraut, sausages and potatoes on the White House lawn.

After two rainy days forced cancellation of the rites, White House messengers were kept busy returning about $1,800 to the offices of the would-be partygoers. That's a lot of root beer.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, walked through the press room one day this week waving a large cigar he said belittled his new status as a senior adviser to the president.

Indeed, Powell now is spending more of his time on affairs of state and less on the functions of his press office. This week, for example, Deputy Press Secretary Rex Gramum is conducting three of the five daily press briefings.

Asked if he considers himself as well-informed as Powell, Gramum declared, "I do."

The shift in Powell's priorities was dictated by concern among Carter and his aides about the way the White House has been performing or, some would say, failing to perform.

Maybe you haven't noticed but a lot of newspapers began referring this week to the president instead of the President.

The change in widely used newspaper style should not be taken personally by Jimmy Carter. The Associated Press and United Press International began wrestling such questions of capitalization long before anyone knew Carter would 'VALENTINO'S WIFE': Singer, now actress Michelle Phillips portrays Natasha Rambova, Rudolph Valentino's wife in movie "Valentino." reach the White House.

On Monday, almost identical new stylebooks covering capitalization, abbreviations and other niceties were put into effect by AP and UPI and adopted by many newspapers. Arranged alphabetically, the entry under "president" reads:

"Capitalize president only as a formal title before one or more names: President Carter, Presidents Ford and Carter."

"Lowercase in all other uses: The president said today. He is running for president. Lincoln was president during the Civil War."

Maybe it's part of the deimperialization of the presidency. If that's the case, stylebook compilers have been at it for a long time.

Until Harry Truman became president, all AP dispatches put a "Mr." before each reference to a president's last name. Truman became simply Truman.

YOUNG FIRM HAS MANY SOURCES If There's An Answer, He Has It

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ask a question, any question. If the answer is in a book, magazine or technical paper available in the Western world Win Parker says he can find it — for a price. "We're opening the door to anyone who wants access to the information explosion," Parker said Tuesday in an interview.

He said there is so much information in even the most specialized fields that it is virtually impossible for experts or anyone else to keep up to date. Using a staff of 28 persons in the United States and four other countries, Parker will check information sources, including computer banks, for the most up-to-date answers to your questions.

The cost is as low as $14.50 for one question, with the price increasing according to how much work and time is involved in finding the answer.

Parker, who holds a doctor of philosophy degree in health education, says most people cannot wade through all the information available to them. For example, he said there are 8,200 journals being published in aquaculture — the science of sea farming.

"In many professions, you are considered up-to-date if you are a year behind in your reading," said Parker. "We roll up our sleeves and give you advantage of a personalized hand-search of daily incoming information. You use both the computer and hand-search information to formulate your answers and make them work for your specific need."

Since his company was formed two years ago, Parker said he has answered about a half-million questions for about 20,000 clients. They range from farmers wanting to know what kind of material would be better than aluminum for portable irrigation pipes to physicians needing the latest word on specific types of cancer.

He has also provided to writers and movie-makers information on what the future is expected to hold so their plots can be as realistic as possible. Parker said he began 8½ years ago developing the cross-referencing system which allows him to bring available information on a given topic together.

He said he had been a consultant to public and private agencies but that the question business has grown to the point that he has given up consulting.

'Television' New Miniseries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First there was "Network." Now comes "Television," a mini-series for NBC. Howard Rodman will write the six-hour script and a novel to be published simultaneously. Unlike the scathing satire of "Network," however, "Television" will take a more "positive" look at the industry from the early 1950s to about 1983.

Samantha, Barbara Star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Samantha Biggar and Barbara Parkins will star as Billie Burke and Anna Held, wives of showman Florenz Ziegfeld in the NBC movie "Ziegfeld: The Man and His Women." ... Colin Wilcock joins the cast of "Jaws 2" ... Canadian soloist and choreographer Anne Ditchburn will star in "Slow Dancing in the Big City" ... Donald Pleasence has been cast as mogul B. D. Brockhurst in "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band."

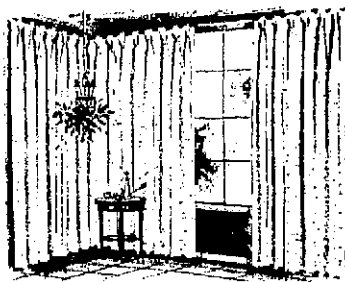

Stuntman Movie Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Burt Reynolds will star in "Hollywood Stuntman," set to go into production in January. ... Ann-Margret, Gladys Knight and the Pips, Merle Haggard, Sheeky Greene and Tia Fields are the first stars signed for "The 7th Annual Las Vegas Entertainment Awards" on NBC Sunday, Dec. 4. Richard Basehart, Paul Rudd, Ruseae Lee Brown and Tivah Feldshuh will star in the remake of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" for public television.

Film Rights Acquired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brut Productions has acquired the television film rights to Jacqueline Susann's best-selling novel "Dolores." The novel is about a woman who marries an Irishman who becomes president and is assassinated. The rights were acquired from Irving Mansfield, husband and manager of the late novelist. Negotiations are under way with a network for a miniseries.

Soviet Dissidents Are Uniting

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet dissidents speaking:

"I have never considered emigrating. Not for one minute. It never entered my head." — Andrei D. Sakharov, 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner who has been at the center of the Soviet dissident movement for a decade.

"I cannot live here any longer. I shall struggle resolutely, using every legal means at my disposal, for the right to emigration." — Vladimir Chestnoy, a Jewish dissident.

They are men with entirely different backgrounds, motivations and goals, but Sakharov and Chestnoy share the label "dissident" — or in Russian "inakomyshlyashi," which means "one with different ideas."

It is a label they share with an astonishing variety of men and women — hundreds of them throughout the Soviet Union — whose only bond until recently has been that they were people "with different ideas."

They share it with labor camp inmates and Jewish intellectuals, with Lithuanian nationalists and writers protesting censorship, with bearded monks from forbidden Russian Orthodox sects and Tatars trying to return from exile to their homes in the Crimea.

Yet, they are different. Sakharov and other committed activists like him believe they can be more useful within the Soviet Union and have no desire to leave their country.

Others like Chestnoy are disillusioned with the U.S.S.R. and simply want to leave. Many such people become activists only in response to official refusals to allow them to emigrate.

In a new tactic against dissidents, officials have now begun giving some of them the choice of leaving or going to prison.

In the current atmosphere of crackdown here, some who had no desire to leave the country have chosen emigration over imprisonment. Among these are Valentin Yurchin, who headed the Moscow chapter of Amnesty International, and Tatyana Khodorovich, who managed a fund to aid political prisoners.

In one of the major changes in the dissident movement this decade, these and other disparate types of dissidents have been drawing together.

With strong central figures, like Sakharov providing the magnet, the varieties of dis-intellectuals still predominate. But a growing number of carpenters, farmers and chauffeurs take part as rural Baptists and Pentecostals play an increasing role.

The labor camps have provided one homogenizing force for the dissidents, and an underground publication that grew out of them, the Ten of the people who joined the group have since been put in prison — among them one Jewish activist, four Ukrainians, two Soviet Georgians and a Lithuanian.

By early this year the dissident movement had reached a level of cohesion, and of publicity in the West, that drew a rare defense from Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in a nationally televised speech.

Brezhnev denied that it is forbidden in the Soviet Union "to think differently." But he said the dissidents go too far and endanger the security of the Soviet Union.

"Quite naturally we have taken and will take against them measures envisaged by law," he said in an address last March 21 to the Soviet trade unions.

Despite his warning, and an apparent official campaign that has been launched against dissidents this year, they continue to travel from across the country to share their problems with Helsinki group members. From far eastern Nakhodka, representatives of hundreds of Evangelical Pentecostals have brought petitions and photographs of peasant families who say they are being persecuted and denied the right to emigrate.

From Kiev have come Jews complaining they have been systematically harassed and prevented from holding memorials to Jews killed in World War II.

From Soviet central Asia have come the Crimean Tatars, personally supported by Sakharov in their attempt to return home from internal exile.

And from the Volga region have come ethnic Germans to demonstrate in Red Square and publicize their attempt to emigrate to West Germany.

Speaking of the group's founder, Yuri Orlov, dissident Pyotr Grigorenko says, "When he first proposed the idea, I was against it. I didn't think it would work. But you see what success it has had. It was just the right thing at the right time."

Russian Students Envy U.S. 5-Day School Week

DENVER (AP) — A Soviet teacher here on an exchange program says teachers in her country have it better but students face a tougher grind than their American counterparts.

Elena Borisovna Poliakova arrived at Cherry Creek High School on Sept. 28 and will return to her Moscow school Nov. 10. The Russian-language teacher is participating in an American Field Service program.

Here are some of the differences she has noted between Cherry Creek and Soviet schools:

—Formality. Soviet students rise and greet their teacher at the beginning and end of each class. They must also rise when called on to recite.

—"Discipline in our schools is stricter," Mrs. Poliakova said. "All kids in our schools wear uniforms and it is absolutely forbidden to smoke inside the school. We also don't let them go out."

Also, she said, "Your kids choose their (elective) classes in high school. With ours, all classes are compulsory."

—Instead of elementary, junior high and high schools, the Soviet Union has a 10-year school system in which students attend classes six days a week, 10 months a year. Mrs. Poliakova said Soviet students "are envious of American students going to school only five days a week."

—Soviet classes are smaller. Mrs. Poliakova said there are usually 35 students to a class here. In her English classes in Moscow, there are no more than 10 or 12 students, she said.

The teacher said that by the time these students finish the 10th grade they are expected to be able to speak and read English fluently.

—One big difference between American and Russian schools, Mrs. Poliakova noted, is that in the Soviet Union a teacher and her class stay together through the grades.

"I took my present pupils in the third grade and I will try not to quit with them until the 10th grade," she said.

Soviet teachers not only have it easier because of stricter discipline, but they also have a lighter teaching load: three or four classes a day compared to the American teacher's average of six.

American teachers do get a break with technology, she noted. Soviet teachers have to type their tests. "You have a duplication room to multiply tests and exercises," Mrs. Poliakova said. "I like immensely all your audiovisual aids."

New TV Series On Ancient Rome Is Racy

By Jay SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you saw the Roman movie epics of the 1950s, you learned there's only one Caesar and he is Victor Mature. But watch "I, Claudius" on public TV for 13 weeks. You'll change your mind.

This acclaimed BBC series, based on Robert Graves' 1934 novel about ancient, corrupt Rome, starts Sunday on the "Masterpiece Theater" show hosted by the always-urbane Alistair Cooke.

It's a richly textured, well-acted dramatization of the period 24 B.C. to 54 A.D., when emperors Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula (he was a bit bent, you'll recall) ruled Rome in their varied ways.

(A warning: Those poorly versed in Latin history might consult the history first or see each show with an expert, as it's a little hard to tell who is doing what to whom and why without a scorecard.)

The series deals with the high-level power struggles, inter-family murder, intrigue and general decadence that led to the eventual fall of the Roman Empire and the ruinous first wave of German tourists there.

It's done in the form of a history secretly written by Claudius when he's old and rightfully convinced that certain parties wish to hasten his bon voyage from this mortal earth.

Sunday's opener starts the history with the reign of Augustus and the machinations of his second wife, Livia, who to promote relative power poisons his son-in-law, Marcellus, making him an ex-hair ap- parent.

This is bad form now, but was the common thing in the good old days, ditto fratricide, incest and the orgy. As such are touched on in "I, Claudius," steps have been taken to alert viewers and stations this is not a Romanized version of "Father Knows Best."

Cooke, in his opening remarks on history, Graves' book and the show, warns that "some people are going to be more shocked by this series than most of the dramas we've shown on 'Masterpiece Theater.'"

But he emphasizes that none of the show's few potentially shocking scenes are gratuitous or intended as titillation. This is history as it was, he says, noting that Graves' based his book on the works of Suetonius, a famed Roman historian of 75-100 A.D. vintage.

He repeats this theme in later shows, particularly one about Caligula, the mad emperor who declared himself a god, married his sister, rendered her pregnant, then killed her and her unborn child.

Cooke insists there's "no delicate or comfortable way" to dramatize the life of this worthy, and wryly suggests: "Maybe tender-minded people might prefer to switch to something more pasteurized."

Still, at WGBH, which bought the series, producer Joan

Sullivan says she deleted some parts — but not entire scenes — of five episodes on grounds of taste.

She said the longest cut, of nearly 1½ minutes, was a two-graphic range of Caligula's ultimate madness. The rest of the cuts only ranged from 20 to 50 seconds, she added.

Her reason for excising one brief bit from an Old Rome orgy scene had a modern twist to it.

She said the axed moment had two homosexuals, one in a woman's dress, romping about, then kissing each other passionately.

It was cut, she said, partly because it was badly acted, partly because "it was insulting to the gay community" in that it reinforced stereotypes of homosexual behavior.

Speaking generally of the deletions she made, she added: "I'm not at all in favor of censorship. But I am in favor of taste."

Fly-Hater's New Job Right Up Her Alley

VISTA, Calif. (AP) — Flies had gotten out of hand, Nellie Barber figured, so she filled a bag with two pounds of dead flies and presented them in the county Board of Supervisors. They promptly appointed the 66-year-old retired school teacher to the county fly board. "I have no compassion for flies," says Mrs. Barber, who has rigged up a backpack insecticide sprayer to stalk flies in her yard.

The problem, she says, are the chicken ranches near her home. Thousands of flies breed in chicken manure left beneath chicken coops. Largely because of Mrs. Barber's efforts, the supervisors will consider a new fly-control ordinance in November.

How did she collect a sack of flies? "I can vacuum them off a living room window," she said. "Then I squirt insecticide into the vacuum." She said things are so bad that neighbors always ask each other, "How are your flies?"

ANITA BRYANT WITH HUSBAND BOB GREEN

'I'M NOT AFRAID'

Threats Mar Anita's Life

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

NEW YORK (AP) — Anita Bryant said Wednesday that militant homosexuals have practically gotten her blacklisted on TV, forced her to live under guard and otherwise disrupted her life.

"I'm not afraid," she said in an interview with The Associated Press. "So they kill me. So what?"

When she was told that homosexual demonstrators were heading for NBC, where she taped two interviews, her husband declared as they hurriedly departed for the airport:

"Why don't they kill us and get it over with?" She said in the interview that she was glad that she had campaigned in Florida against a Dade County ordinance that would have permitted known homosexuals to teach in public and private schools.

"If I had to do it all over again, I would," Miss Bryant said, adding that she would continue her fight against homosexuals.

Although she declined to discuss security precautions in detail, Miss Bryant, who was traveling with a security guard, said her family doesn't dare open its mail for fear of bombs.

"There's practically a state of siege in this building here today," Bob Green, her husband, remarked of the NBC building.

Besides threats, other consequences of her opposition to homosexuals were a pie thrown in her face in Des Moines a few weeks ago and the possibility of the Florida Citrus Commission's dropping her from its advertising campaign.

"It looks like it's coming that way," she said, noting that a decision was due on her continuing in the more than $100,000-a-year job on Nov. 17.

Miss Bryant said another result of her campaign has been the refusal of TV talk shows to book her for appearances. She said she was told that other performers would refuse to work on the shows if she appeared.

The entertainer, who said she canceled a news conference here scheduled for Thursday because of numerous threats, added that she "felt bad" as a result.

"I believe the right to differ in this country is being taken away," she said.

Children Tell Terror Of Burial Alive

TOO YOUNG: Lollipops are the only consolation in London for two girls who have been barred from this year's Miss World contest — to be staged at the Royal Albert Hall on Nov. 17 — because they are too young. They are Miss Italy, Anna Kanakis (left), from Sicily, and Miss Malta, Janice Galea, both of whom are only 15 and still at school. (AP Wirephoto)

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The three confessed kidnapers stared blankly. Some of Chowchilla's children wept on the witness stand and others told in low voices of their terror at being buried alive.

"I was scared," each child echoed as his turn came to testify.

Some of the six who sat in the witness chair were so small they seemed lost.

The youngsters, kidnapped with their school bus driver, spoke of fears and prayers, of fainting from fright and bolstering their courage with songs sung in the darkness of their underground tomb.

"A lot of kids were crying and screaming," 10-year-old Jennifer Brown recalled. "... I was singing, 'If You're Happy and You Know It, Clap Your Hands.' But nobody did."

From the spectators, there were sympathetic smiles. But across the room James Schoenfeld, 26; Richard Schoenfeld, 21; and Fred Woods, 25, sat stony faced.

They have admitted they hijacked a Chowchilla school bus on July 15, 1976, took the 26 children and their driver to a gravel quarry and buried them in a dirt-covered moving van.

The three deny they harmed anyone, and that is the issue to be resolved in this trial. If found guilty of kidnapping with bodily harm, they face life in prison with no chance of parole.

"The kids were crying and begging to come out," Jody Matheny, 12, said of the moments after the kidnapers dropped a heavy lid on the underground prison. "It was hot," he remembered. "There was no room to move or nothin'. It was all bunched up."

Irene Carrejo, 13, kidnapped with several of her brothers and sisters, burst into tears as she tried to testify. "I can't answer the questions," she said.

Her mother and aunt embraced her and the girl finished her testimony in a whisper, remembering when even driver Ed Ray wept.

"Ed started to cry," she said, "and it just got everyone down to see him cry." Moments later, she said, Ray began digging an escape route by the light of a fading flashlight.

"From then on, it was just a blur. I didn't know what I was doing. I was shaking all the time," Irene said.

The most vivid description of the 27-hour ordeal came from Jennifer Brown.

"It was hot and it didn't smell that nice," she said of the underground tomb. "... after we were in there a long time, the air started to disappear and it got hard to breathe."

The aftermath of the kidnapping was described by parents who remembered their children coming home, dazed and dirty, in the early morning darkness.

"She had no expression," Joan Brown said of her daughter, Jennifer, 10. "It was ... like she was sleepwalking."

Tom Van Hoff said his daughter Cynthia, 8, would not speak to him for several days.

"She didn't have anything to say. She was ashamed of herself and what had happened to her," the father said.

Kapstein Sees Draft As Sellers' Market

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Take it from one of the middle men, baseball's free agent re-entry draft Friday will be a "sellers'" and not a "buyers'" market.

"I foresee a great demand for the quality players just as in the inaugural draft a year ago," says Jerry Kapstein, the enterprising players' agent from Providence, R.I. "I think, if anything, the results of a year ago have produced these definite conclusions:

"One, fans want to see winning baseball. They don't care how the team comes by the players needed to produce it.

"Two, successful owners try to do what is best for the fans. They find that winning baseball pays for itself through increased gate receipts.

"Three, the dire prediction of traditionalists that the re-entry draft would destroy the game proved completely false. Attendance in 1977 was the highest in history. The draft, instead of hurting the game, fired hot stove interest that carried over into the season.

"Four, another proven misconception is that players signing big money, long-term contracts would lack motivation. An overwhelming majority of the free agents had excellent seasons."

Kapstein, a 34-year-old bachelor, Harvard graduate and ex-naval officer, has emerged as one of the most potent forces in baseball's new free agent structure, dictated by arbitrators and the courts.

Of the 15 top players plucked in the 1976 draft, Kapstein served as business agent for 10 of them, negotiating long term contracts totaling more than $15 million.

They included Joe Rudi ($2.1 million), Don Baylor ($1.6m) and Bobby Grich ($1.6m), all signed by California; Rolfe Fingers ($1.7m) and Gene Tenace ($1.6m), San Diego; Bert Campaneris ($1m) and Dale Alexander ($955,000), Texas; Don Gullett ($1.9m), Yankees; Wayne Garland ($2.3m), Indians, and Dave Cash ($1.6m), Expos.

Although he has a stable of some 30 major league players, capable of creating a diamond dynasty on their own, the bustling New Englander has only five among the 80-odd which will be up thrown into Friday's grab bag, but they are all strictly top drawer.

They include ace relief pitchers Rich Gossage of the Pirates and Rawly Fastwick of the Cardinals; 14-game winner Ross Grimsley of the Orioles; another pitcher, Pat Darcy of the Cardinals, and hard-hitting outfielder Richie Zisk of the White Sox.

While Kapstein zealously guards the privacy of his transactions, it's figured these five players may draw as much as $7 to $9 million.

Although he won't discuss specific teams, it is obvious that Kapstein feels that the success of the New York Yankees and their controversial acquisition, Reggie Jackson, backs up his theory that money spent on superstars can return manifold.

The Yankees' George Steinbrenner was one of the big spenders in the 1976 draft, paying $2.9 million for Jackson and $1.9 million for Gullett. Jackson's clutch hitting picked up the team in September and carried it to the Yankees' first World Series victory in 16 years. Reggie, with three home runs in the final game, was the Series hero. Gullett was injured most of the year, but still posted a 14-1 record.

The Yankees drew more than two million fans both at home and on the road. They made money.

"Rudi and Baylor were hurt most of the year, but no one could accuse any of the free agents of laying down on the job," Kapstein said. Those two relievers, Campbell and Fingers, had terrific years. Alexander won 17 games for Texas.

Fingers had an 8-9 mark and 35 saves. Bill Campbell, bought by Boston for $1.1 million, was 13-9 with 31 saves.

"The free agent draft is now a fact of life in baseball," the New England agent said. "It has certain advantages in that a team can add to its strength without giving up talent, as in a trade.

"The fans want a winner. The goal of all 26 owners is to give them one. One way to do it is to strengthen the team at the market place."

More Woes For Pistons In Bombing By Atlanta

DETROIT (AP) — Ron Behagen broke his nose and Bob Lanier got poked in the eye, but Eric Money suffered perhaps the worst injury — a busted ego.

At least Behagen can soothe his injury in the knowledge that he helped the Atlanta Hawks take a 102-89 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night over the Detroit Pistons.

Behagen and John Drew each scored 22 points for the Hawks, who won their fourth in a row and fifth in seven starts.

It was Drew's elbow that broke Behagen's nose in the fourth quarter during the battle for a rebound.

It was in the same period that Pistons' center Lanier got poked. He was seeing double and it was believed he suffered muscle spasms in the right eye. He was to be checked today by an eye specialist.

The injury to Money's pride came when he was benched by Coach Herb Brown and, according to one source close to the team, got in a shouting match with the coach at halftime.

"I'm only going to play the guys who want to play ball," Brown said. "I won't placate anyone. I did not like Eric's attitude at halftime. Either they play my way or they won't play at all."

The conflict is just another chapter in a continuing situation that went on all last season. Money and fellow guards Kevin Porter and Ralph Simpson all complained about the way Brown was using — or not using — them. Porter was the most vocal.

Against the Hawks, Money played just 15 minutes and scored five points. Simpson played 20 and scored 12. Porter was in for 35 minutes, scored 14 points and had 10 assists. Another guard, co-captain Chris Ford, scored two points in his 26 minutes.

"Kevin was the only guy who played the whole second half and he did a good job," Brown said.

Atlanta's coach is also a Brown — Hobbie.

"The overall effort tonight was fantastic," he said. "Our defense in the first half was possibly the best in two years. Whenever you hold a team like Detroit to 89 points when they are averaging 111, you know it was a good overall team effort."

He made note that the entire Hawks' player payroll is around $900,000. At times when the Pistons had Lanier, Marvin Barnes and Simpson on the floor, Detroit had at least three men who combined are paid more than all the Hawks.

The teams were tied at 20-20 with four minutes left in the opening period when Atlanta made its breakaway move, scoring the final 11 points of the quarter. Then the Hawks outscored Detroit 32-22 in the second period, with breakouts of 14-2 and 12-2, to move in front 63-42 at the half.

Detroit managed to pull within six points at 94-88 with 3:11 left, but two free throws by Drew and a basket by Armond Hill put the game out of reach.

Lanier topped the Pistons with 29 points and 10 rebounds. The loss snapped Detroit's four-game home winning streak.

Minnesota, MSU Fight For Third

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Michigan State and Minnesota meet Saturday at Memorial Stadium in a game which should settle who is the No. 3 football team in the Big Ten behind superpowers Ohio State and Michigan.

The Spartans, beaten only by Michigan 24-14 in the Big Ten, have a 3-1-1 conference record and hold down third place. Their other losses during a 4-3-1 season were 16-6 to nationally ranked Notre Dame and 23-21 to Washington State.

The Spartans earned a 13-43 tie at Indiana, where the Gophers were upset 34-22 last Saturday. But Minnesota, 5-3, is unbeaten at home this season and owns an astounding 16-0 victory over Michigan, which cost the Wolverines the No. 1 rating in the country.

Gopher Coach Cal Stoll says the Spartans are good enough to rate with Michigan and Ohio State. "It might be a Little 7 and Big 3 instead of the Little 8 and Big 2," said Stoll.

Spartan Coach Darryl Rogers hastens to point out that the Gophers have turned in victories over three teams in the running for Rose Bowl berths, UCLA and Washington of the Pacific 8 and Michigan.

The Spartans, who relied on the pass earlier in the season, rolled up more than 400 yards on the ground in smothering Illinois 49-20 last Saturday.

Rogers said his team turned in its best performance of the season and caught the Illini on an off-day.

Stoll said that standout linebackers Steve Stewart and Michael Hunt will play Saturday, after missing much of the Indiana game with injuries. The Hoosiers came from behind with three fourth-quarter touchdowns.

"If those two youngsters had not gone down we would have won the football game," said Stoll. "That took the heart out of our defense."

Stoll said he is undecided between sophomores Mark Carlson and Wendell Avery as his starting quarterback. Avery started the first five games of the season and Carlson has started the last two.

Freshman Marion Barber rushed for 105 yards against Indiana and is the Gophers top rusher this season with 371 yards.

Quarterback Ed Smith has completed 81 of 176 yards for 1,128 yards for MSU while Leroy McGee has rushed for 616 yards and Jim Early has reeled off 505.

Although the Spartans have a potent offense, their defense ranks last in the league.

The game also features two of the top field goal kickers in the country. The Gophers' Paul Rogind has kicked 15 of 19 attempts for a remarkable 789 percentage and has won three games with his kicks. He has converted nine of nine extra points and is Minnesota's leading scorer with 54 points.

Hans Nielsen of MSU is his team's top scorer with 51 points, on 11 of 20 field goal attempts and 18 of 19 extra points. He has 38 career field goals which ties a Big Ten record.

STILL ROLLING: Pop Barker of South Haven celebrated his 97th birthday Tuesday night by bowling, naturally. That's not unusual for him as he bowls in six leagues each week and is the secretary for each of the leagues. Pop has been bowling since 1898 and carries an average of 125. He was featured in "Ripley's Believe It or Not" in 1969 when he was 88 and bowling in seven leagues. Pop, who still drives a car, bowls at Broadway Lanes in South Haven. (Tom Renner photo)

Baseball May Get Leach

By JOHN VANDEN HEDE
Sports Editor

Which sport will Michigan's Rick Leach choose when it comes time to select a professional career?

Wolverine baseball coach Moby Benedict naturally thinks it will be the diamond sport, but he is quick to add that Leach could play in the National Football League.

"I think when the time comes he will want to play baseball," says Benedict. "But don't tell him he couldn't make it in pro football, because he would go out and prove you wrong. He's got more of a belly for fight than anyone I've ever seen. He's truly a great athlete."

Leach, as all sports fans know, is quarterback of the Michigan football team, where he already owns most of the Wolverine records, although just a junior.

Lesser known is the fact that he's also a baseball standout...the leading hitter on Michigan's baseball team as a freshman and sophomore.

Benedict, who was in the twin cities Wednesday night to address the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph University of Michigan Alumni Club, also gives assurance to Wolverine followers that Leach won't jump to the pros and skip his senior year at Michigan.

"Leach is the most celebrated football player at Michigan since Tom Harmon," notes Benedict. "He's in a glamour position at quarterback. He playing for one of the top-ranked teams in the country. He's known nationally...he's been on the cover of Sports Illustrated and all of the other national sports magazines. And he's got a good chance to win the Heisman trophy. So why not take a shot at it? And why should he turn professional now, he could have signed right out of high school for $100,000."

Benedict, who played with Leach's father, Dick, on Michigan's national championship baseball team in 1953, wants Rick back because the Wolverines are aiming for a Big Ten championship next spring and their fourth straight trip to the NCAA playoffs. Benedict, who just concluded seven weeks of fall practice last Friday, has seven starters and all but one pitcher returning from last spring's team which finished second in the Big Ten at 14-4 with the most wins overall (22) in Michigan history.

Leach, a centerfielder, led the team last spring while earning all-Big Ten honors a second straight year with a .316 batting average and 35 runs batted in, both team highs.

Benedict recalls that Leach split the early spring between football and baseball and only hit 170. He was required to participate in spring football drills and practiced baseball only about an hour a day. He also missed some games and got to others in time to only be a pinch hitter. But when football was over and he could concentrate on baseball, Leach hit .450 the rest of the way. He then went on to the Alaskan League, which includes all of the top college players, and hit .365.

"I know he can play professional baseball," continues Benedict, who notes that Leach would have been the No. 1 draft pick out of high school in Flint by the Philadelphia Phillies if his father hadn't told the team to "back off" because his son was going to follow in his footsteps at Michigan.

Benedict doesn't believe Leach's college days will diminish his baseball potential, because college baseball more and more is replacing the low minor leagues.

Benedict is proud of his contributions to baseball and the overall Michigan sports program. Since taking over the head job, he has gone 304-228-7, with Big Ten titles as recently as 1975 and 1976.

Benedict has helped Michigan win the unofficial Big Ten all-sports title nine of the last 10 years. The Wolverines have also captured the honor 14 of the last 17 years and 32 of the last 40.

Michigan hopes to reach a milestone in its sports history Saturday in the Big Ten cross country championships...a victory would give the Wolverines their 200th overall Big Ten title.

One wonders if Leach will show up in his running togs.

MICHIGAN MEN: Bill Orwig (left) and Moby Benedict display "M" blanket. Orwig, of Sister Lakes, is now working for Michigan in its women's sports program while Benedict is Wolverine baseball coach. Benedict was in the area Wednesday night to address the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph University of Michigan Alumni Club. (Staff photo) have suffered heart-breaking losses this fall. Lakeshore has lost its four games by a total of only 19 points while Benton Harbor has also dropped several close clashes, including last Friday in overtime to Battle Creek Central. The Tigers have also been hit hard by injuries all season.

Sets Michigan Tech Records

Bob North Star Up North

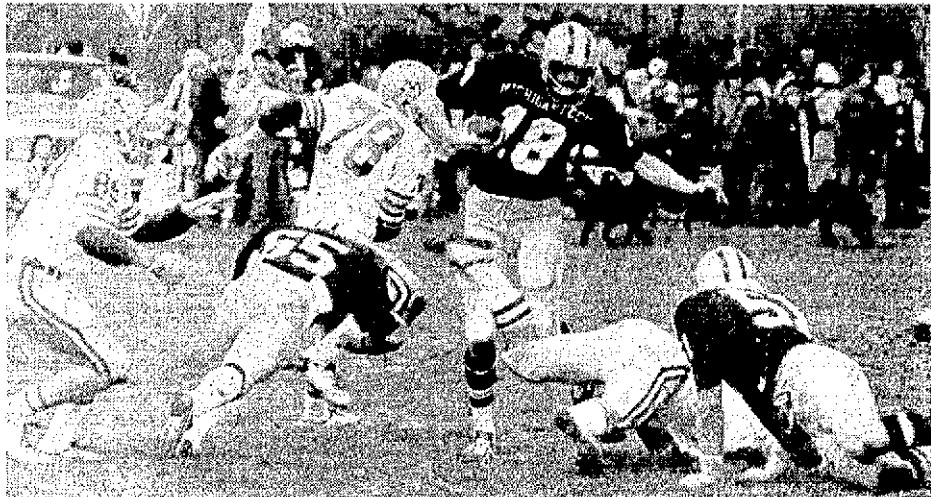

BOB NORTH

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer
HOUGHTON — Bob North is enjoying football success up North.
North, former top-notch athlete at River Valley, recently set Michigan Tech passing records and last week against Ferris State he tossed for 129 yards and one touchdown against the nationally top ranked pass defense in NCAA Division II.
The 6-4, 200-pound quarterback has accomplished all this despite missing the first five games of the year due to an ankle injury. And he's still not 100 per cent healthy.
"My ankle still bothers me some," remarks North. "Mostly it hampers me in my running."
North twisted his ankle in warmup drills before Tech's season-opening game.

"Yes, it was really a freak injury," notes North. "Plus I was also coming off shoulder surgery last spring when I was hurt in spring practice. I was just getting my shoulder healed up and then I twisted my ankle. It's sort of been disappointing with all these injuries."
The junior signal-caller set school records for passes attempted, passes completed and total yards Oct. 22 in a 28-25 loss to Southwest State. North completed 21 of 35 aerials for 218 yards and two scores while also rushing for 65 yards.
In four games, North has been on target on 36 of 62 passes for 299 yards with five interceptions.
North was brilliant against Ferris last week in 23-17 Huskie win. He connected on 10 of 15 passes for his 129 yards and the winning TD pass of 12 yards with 4:21 left in the game. North also carried 18 times for 31 yards, including a 1-yard scoring run. North was named the team's Offensive Player of the Week by the coaching staff for his efforts.
North quarterbacked River Valley for two years but was better known for his baseball abilities as he was named to the Blossomland all-league baseball team two straight years.
He was recruited by Tech, Hillsdale, Ferris, Grand Valley and Saginaw Valley but finally chose to go North to Houghton, some 550 miles away in the Copper Country of the Upper Peninsula.
"I visited Tech in the spring and was just really impressed with the area," comments North. "I really liked the school plus it had a good school of forestry."
North took over the starting quarterback job midway through last year and last spring was named the team's top spring performer.
North is an avid outdoorsman and he enjoys hunting, fishing and cross-country and downhill skiing in his spare time. He is majoring in biology and hopes to get into oceanography after graduation.
North also has a younger brother, Dave, who plays on the Hillsdale College football team.
"He's a backup split end and tight end," states North of his brother. "He caught his first touchdown pass two games ago. He's just a sophomore."

The Norths are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo North of Houghton.
North, who admits he misses baseball (Tech doesn't have a baseball team), and Tech wind up their season this Saturday by hosting St. Cloud (Minn.). The Huskies have struggled to a disappointing 3-6 record so far this season. North's early loss, no doubt, played a key part in that losing mark.
"We got off to a slow start and it's been tough trying to pick ourselves up," notes North, who is already looking forward to bigger and better things next year.

NORTH GAINER: Bob North carries the football for a short gainer in recent game for Michigan Tech Huskies, who close out their season this Saturday by hosting St. Cloud (Minn.). North is an option quarterback for the Mark Herrmann is the graded passing leader with 1,099 yards and 11 touchdowns to 638 yards and 8 touchdowns for Michigan's Rick Leach. Herrmann also leads in total offense with an average of 292.0 yards a game to 182.2 for Leach.

Ray Stachowicz of Michigan State is the leading punter with a 42.0 average followed by John Anderson of Michigan at 41.3 and Dan Zarling of Indiana at 40.4.
Dave Abrams of Indiana leads in passes intercepted with four while Fred Arrington of Purdue, David Blakely of Illinois and Tom Roche of Ohio State are tied at three each.

Lancers Fall
Niles Ring Gardner downed Lakeshore 39-28 in girls seventh grade basketball action Tuesday. Mary Fowler had 15 points for the Lancers. Tracy Scott hit 18 as Lancers topped Lakeshore 37-34 in the eighth grade contest.

Career Clips

Junior fullback Doug Lincoln (St. Joseph) enjoyed his third straight outstanding performance since becoming a starter as he gained 80 yards in 19 carries to help Western Michigan to a 28-22 win over Ohio University last week. He now has 308 yards on the season in only 70 carries. He has a 5.3 rushing average.

Dave Ziebart (St. Joseph) connected on 14 of 23 passes for 164 yards in Air Force's 36-14 loss at the hands of Boston College last Saturday. The sophomore quarterback, who ranks 10th nationally, according to the latest NCAA statistics, also rushed for 38 yards, including both Falcon touchdowns on runs of eight and three yards.

Notre Dame's MacAfee Top Tight End In Country

NOTRE DAME — Rodney Dangerfield probably wouldn't like Notre Dame's Ken MacAfee. He gets too much respect.

"If there is a better tight end in the country I'd like to see him," says Georgia Tech secondary coach Jack Westbrook, who has the task of trying to stop the 6-4, 230-pound star Saturday. "I've had to coach against him at three different schools (Rice, Miami and Georgia Tech) in the last four years and every time I see him he gets better and better. He has not had big statistical days against our teams, like catching eight passes, but he always comes up with the big play at the critical point of the game. I've only seen him once this season, against USC on television, but that was enough. We'll have to come up with something special to slow him down."

Notre Dame has had some great tight ends over the years, but none have caught more passes than MacAfee. The two-time and soon to be three-time All-American went over the 100 mark in career pass receptions against USC when he snagged eight Joe Montana passes for 97 yards and two touchdowns in what many called the greatest game of his career. "Big Mac" is currently fourth in the country in receptions and first among tight ends.

MacAfee added 130 yards (on five receptions) against Navy last week for the most yardage for a Notre Dame receiver since split end Tom Gatewood carried his eight passes 136 yards against Army in 1970.

These are the kind of performances that All-Americans are made of. And MacAfee is certainly an All-American, having gained the honor the last two years.

But while it's great, MacAfee knows full well that the honor doesn't mean a thing once you take the field.

"It presents a little pressure because people expect you to be flawless," the senior admits. "But once the game starts, you can't think about it. You have to get the job done."

And you have to get the job done on the practice field, too. If you want to become an All-American.

"When I initially came here as a freshman," MacAfee says, "I wasn't the best blocker in the world. I've had to work diligently on my blocking, but I think I have confidence enough now that I block well."

Catching the ball has always been easy for MacAfee. "I played split end in high school," he adds, "so I caught the ball a lot. And I still go out every day to catch before practice with the quarterbacks and 'Jugs'."

"Jugs" is a machine which can be adjusted to throw the ball high or low, short and far.

"Catching the ball is more of a mental thing than physical," MacAfee says. "You've got to concentrate on the ball from the moment it leaves the quarterback's hand to the time it gets to your hands.

"When the ball is up in the air, you've got to realize it's yours."

MacAfee left no doubt about that against Southern Cal. "We had practiced those high passes Joe (Montana) threw," he reflects. "We knew Southern Cal had tremendous athletes, and we also knew if Joe had tried to force it in or throw it low, he might have been intercepted."

"That's why we threw those alley-oop passes. Joe was on target all day with them. All I had to do was out rebound the defenders."

And that was easy for the former prep basketball standout who hopes to combine a career in pro football with dental school when he graduates in May.

It certainly isn't easy to combine a football career with pre-med studies, but MacAfee has been doing that quite successfully for four years. He currently carries a B average scholastically.

"I'm just doing what my father (Ken, Sr., a former standout at Alabama and with the New York Giants) said," MacAfee concludes. "If you just work hard at them, things will come."

They certainly will. You have to earn respect.

BULLS EDGE PHILLY Baylor Blasts Referees

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elgin Baylor, coach of the New Orleans Jazz, was well aware of the National Basketball Association's policy against verbally assaulting referees.

But Baylor did not flinch in taking his best shots at what he considered some poor officiating Wednesday night in the Jazz' last-second 104-102 loss to the Kansas City Kings.

"That was atrocious," Baylor said angrily about the work of referees Jack Madden and Tommy Nunez. "I think if something was said more often, they would be more cautious with their jobs."

Baylor was particularly incensed about an offensive foul called against Truck Robinson with six seconds remaining and the score 102-102. He felt the foul should have been against Kansas City.

After the controversial call, Kansas City's Lucius Allen hit a 10-foot jump shot with one second left, giving the Kings the victory and ending New Orleans' five-game winning streak.

Richard Washington led Kansas City with 22 points. New Orleans' Pete Maravich scored 21.

In other NBA games, the Atlanta Hawks whipped the Detroit Pistons 102-88, the Chicago Bulls edged the Philadelphia 76ers 103-102, the Buffalo Braves downed the Denver Nuggets 104-100, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Boston Celtics 101-101, the Los Angeles Lakers topped the New Jersey Nets 107-102, and the Seattle SuperSonics outlasted the Indiana Pacers 106-104 in overtime.

Ardis Gilmore scored 30 points, including the go-ahead basket late in the fourth quarter, as the Bulls handed the stumbling 76ers their third straight loss and fourth setback in six games. George McGinnis' 21 points paced Philadelphia, the losing finalist in last season's playoffs.

Handy Smith scored 32 points, Billy Knight had 23 points and 12 rebounds and Sven Nater collected 14 points, including two clutch baskets in the final two minutes, and 14 rebounds, helping Buffalo end a four-game losing streak. Rookie Anthony Roberts led Denver with 20 points.

"We've got problems," Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn said after his slumping Celtics suffered their sixth loss in seven games overall, but their first appearance of the season at Boston Garden. Walt Frazier led Cleveland with 22 points, while Jo Jo White was high for the Celtics with 20.

Rookie James Edwards scored 22 points and grabbed nine rebounds and another rookie, Norm Nixon, tallied nine of his 16 points in the final period, including seven in the last 1:18, lifting the Lakers past the Nets, despite a 39-point showing by New Jersey rookie Bernard King.

John Johnson's baseline jumper with 21 seconds remaining in overtime boosted Seattle over Indiana. Gus Williams came off the bench and paced the Sonics with 27 points. Indiana's John Williamson scored 30.

St. Joe Girls Remain Perfect

St. Joseph's girls swimming team closed out the home portion of its season the same way it started — with a victory.

The 8-0 Bears had two triple winners as they knocked off Portage Central 100-61 in action Wednesday night.

Kenna Finch won the 200 freestyle, 500 freestyle and was on the winning 400 freestyle relay while Diana Grandy won the individual medley, 100 backstroke and swam backstroke on the medley relay team.

The double winners were Nancy Waldenmaier (100 butterfly, medley relay) and Barb Goodhart (100 breaststroke, 400 freestyle relay).

Jane Boerma won the diving while Lori Bestervelt took the 100 freestyle. Patti Kozintz and Cathy Rahn were on the medley relay and Kim Maddock and Liz Honsell were on the freestyle relay team.

The Bears have a dual meet next Tuesday against unbeaten Holland on the road.

SWITZER DOUBLED UP

Head football coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma was a two-way player at Arkansas in the late 1950s, snapping the ball at center on offense and playing linebacker on defense.

LMC Keeps Rolling Along

GRAND RAPIDS — The Lake Michigan College girls volleyball team took two more wins here Wednesday to up their season's record to a sparkling 26-5. LMC downed Mott Community College 10-15, 13-9, 13-13 and Grand Rapids Junior College 15-9, 15-8.

Top servers were Mary Hoff with 18, Janet Hess 14, Karen Aulis 11 and Fern Berman and Mo McCarthy eight each. Top hitters were Hoff 23, Deb Lund-din 21, Hess 15 and Aulis and McCarthy 10 apiece.

The Indians travel to Detroit Saturday to take on Henry Ford Community College and the Ohio State jayvees.

LMC's final home matches will be next Tuesday night starting at 6 p.m. The Indians will meet Kalamazoo Valley and Jackson. The last regular-season matches will also feature Parent's Night.

Yancey Charged As Peeping Tom

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — Gaffer Bert Yancey, a teaching professional at nearby Hilton Head Island, was jailed on charges of lewd conduct Monday, then transferred to a state mental hospital in a straitjacket after he became "very violent," authorities said Wednesday.

Yancey, 39, one of golf's top 50 all-time money winners with $688,000 in career earnings, was charged with looking through the window of a woman's home, indecent exposure, resisting arrest and destruction of county property, said Lt. John Kistler of the Beaufort County Sheriff's Department.

Kistler said the department received a powder call at 1 a.m. Monday at a home next door to Yancey's residence at Hilton Head Island.

Deputies arriving at the scene said they saw a man looking through a rear window into the home. The man approached a deputy and exposed himself while making obscene gestures, the deputies said.

The deputies' reports said the man was attempting to enter the home of an unidentified 35-year-old woman.

Kistler, said the man became belligerent and was handcuffed en route to the county jail.

Kistler said he continued acting violently at the jail and was transported to Columbia on a magistrate's order the same day he was arrested.

Yancey was placed in the State Hospital in Columbia for observation, Kistler said.

Yancey retired from the pro golf circuit to become a teaching professional at the Hilton Head Golf Club this year. The Clulpey, Fla., native turned professional in 1961 and joined the Professional Golfers Association — PGA — tour in 1964. He was a three-time runner-up in the Masters tournament.

WINGS WIN; HAWKS TIE

Deadlock Makes Coaches Happy

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The way the Atlanta Flames have been playing lately, Coach Fred Creighton will settle for a tie with the Montreal Canadiens.

The 2-2 score Wednesday night made two coaches happy, in fact. Scotty Bowman's Canadiens haven't been any ball of fire recently, either.

"I'll take the point," said Creighton after his team played the defending National Hockey League champions to a draw. "It's a good point — especially coming on the heels of that disaster last night."

The Flames suffered a 9-0 drubbing by the New York Islanders before facing the Canadiens, a team generally considered to be the best in the NHL by far.

But inexplicably, the talent-laden Canadiens have fallen on hard times. Before Wednesday night's tie at the Montreal Forum, a place where they are nearly impossible to beat, the Canadiens had lost two games in a row.

The tie extended the Canadiens' winless streak to four games, a shocking figure considering that they lost only eight games all last year in the regular season.

In other NHL games, the Minnesota North Stars edged the New York Islanders 3-2; the Detroit Red Wings stopped the Pittsburgh Penguins 3-1; the St. Louis Blues and Cleveland Barons played to a 4-4 tie; the Washington Capitals tied the Chicago Black Hawks 2-2; the Colorado Rockies hammered the New York Rangers 6-2 and the Toronto Maple Leafs whipped the Vancouver Canucks 5-1.

Glen Sharpley's third-period goal and Pete LoPresti's clutch goaltending sparked Minnesota over the New York Islanders. Sharpley glanced a shot off the back of goalie Glen Resch's right skate into the net for the eventual winning goal at 8:17 of the final period.

Rookies Dale McCourt and Paul Woods and veteran Dennis Hextall scored goals to lead Detroit over Pittsburgh in a penalty-filled game. Referee Andy Van Hellemond assessed 31 penalties in the first period to tie an NHL record set Dec. 14, 1974, in a game between the New York Rangers and the St. Louis Blues.

There were 146 minutes in penalties in the first period and a game total of 190. Detroit drew 98 minutes on 26 penalties and Pittsburgh 92 on 22.

Dennis Maruk scored four goals to give Cleveland a tie with St. Louis. Inge Hammarstrom, acquired earlier this week by the Blues, scored two goals.

The deadlock ended a four-game losing streak for the Barons.

Nelson Burton scored his first goal in his first NHL game to help Washington tie Chicago. The Caps opened the scoring midway through the first period with Burton's goal, then later tied the game on a power-play goal in the third period by Rick Green.

Rookie Barry Beck snapped a 2-2 tie with his third goal of the season, triggering Colorado over the New York Rangers. The Rockies, unbeaten in their last five games, had a much tougher time than the score would indicate.

Lane Keys Titan Win

Karl Lane scored 16 points and pulled down 14 rebounds while leading Michigan Lutheran girls to a 35-30 basketball victory over Saugatuck Wednesday in the Titan gym.

Lori Garlinger added 12 points to the Lutheran cause, including eight in the third quarter when the Titans were erasing Saugatuck's 16-14 half-time lead. Lutheran scored 12 points in the period and led 26-21 entering the final stanza.

Michigan Lutheran is now 7-5 on the season.

Horse Switch Betting Scandal Spreads To Uruguay

NEW YORK (AP) — A five-man task force was in Uruguay today trying to unravel a spreading horse switch betting case, while Lloyd's of London, the prestigious international insurance consortium, joined the investigation into a scandal that has shaken the thoroughbred sport.

While Lloyd's announced its intention to appoint lawyers in its behalf "to investigate the possibility of fraud," there were several other developments in the scandal that might involve six horses whose identities were changed to produce longshot winners in some races.

They included: —Dr. Mark Gerard, the veterinarian suspended for "possible racing fraud," was ordered reinstated by State Supreme Court Judge Theodore Velsor, pending an administrative hearing today by the State Racing and Wagering Board.

It was reported that State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz' office was watching the case and would file an appeal to stay Judge Velsor's order in the event Dr. Gerard attempted to return to the stables.

John Van Lindt, counsel for the Racing and Wagering Board, who originally had suspended Dr. Gerard, said the veterinarian had told "an outright lie" in filling out an insurance claim.

—Another horse was placed under close guard at Belmont Park, the fourth horse prohibited from leaving the track while the investigation is under way.

—And Christa Ingeborg Mancuso of Homestead, Fla., an associate of Dr. Gerard's, was identified as a key figure in the case. She was listed as the owner of two horses, imported from South America by Dr. Gerard, both of whom scored longshot victories following poor previous performances.

They will interview any and all people involved, take blood samples of any and all horses involved, and find out as much as they can," Van Lindt said of the investigating team.

So everyone has a chance to save, we must reserve the right to limit quantities.

Dr. Gerard was suspended last week after a highly regarded Uruguayan colt, the 4-year-old Cinzano, won a race at Belmont Sept. 28. The veterinarian allegedly had destroyed the horse June 12 at Mottontown, N.Y., after it suffered a skull fracture.

Cinzano allegedly was racing under the name of Lebon, a mediocre performer. The victory by the "ringer," listed at odds of 57-1, triggered the international scandal.

One better, identified as Dr. Gerard, reportedly collected $77,290 after the race. Authorities now suspect that the horse actually destroyed was Lebon.

GETTING IN SHAPE: Steve Williams toured West Lake of the Isles on cross country roller skis Tuesday to get into shape for the Central U.S. Ski Association. He said he has been working out around Minneapolis city lakes regularly for two weeks. (AP Wirephoto)

Roseland Remains Island Of Gentility

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Still they come to Roseland.

They come to remember and to forget. They come for flirtation and light conversation, for an afternoon's courtship or a companionship of years.

Above all, they come to dance. And under the compassionate lights and gentle batons of the Roseland ballroom, all things are possible and the clichés are true.

The music works like vanishing cream and the red paper roses look fresh in crimped white hair. Wall flowers bloom, or at least forget, and withered widows can pretend to be Cinderellas.

After 58 years, Roseland survives on 52nd Street west of Broadway, a time capsule of ladies and gentlemen dancing cheek to cheek in a vast art deco music box.

Every week, 6,000 to 10,000 persons pay $1.50 each to dance on the 10,000 square foot floor of polished maple. About 2,000 people can dance in the nation's largest ballroom.

"I see Roseland as a happy place where people come to truly dance and have a good time. We want to do away with the lonely hearts image," said Nancy Brecker Leeds, daughter of Lou Brecker who opened the original Roseland on New Year's Eve in 1919.

At that time, it was located at 51st Street and Broadway, under Philadelphia Jack O'Brien's pool hall. In 1956 it moved to its present location, the old Gay Blades ice skating rink, and it is still family owned.

Roseland remains an island of gentility, a flourishing anachronism in a garish district of theaters, discos, bars, peep shows, assorted joints and souvenir shops. It retains an air of innocence and pleasant unsophistication.

Roseland is to the blue collar, white collar and polyester set what Regines, the popular East Side discotheque, is to the jet set. A meeting place, especially for older singles.

Above All,
They Come To Dance

"It's a social club, a hobby, a home away from home, a religion," said Ade Kahn. Roseland's public relations man for many years.

Roselanders come from all over. They fly in from Detroit for the weekend, take the train from Philadelphia, drive in from New Jersey, catch the subway from Queens or a cab from Brooklyn. A map once came in snow shoes and a blind man felt his way with a cane.

They are secretaries, housewives, teachers, businessmen, doctors, lawyers, truck drivers, steam fitters. Dance teachers take their students and psychiatrists have been known to take their patients for a dose of dance therapy.

Roseland doesn't swing, it sways. It is cavernous, but cozy. The scent of safe adventure wafts over this museum of glad rags and plastic roses, golden slippers, chiffon scarves, false eyelashes and beauty spots. It is a King Solomon's mine of rhinestone baubles and a church social of Sunday best.

And, please — Roseland officials lower their voices — do not call it a dance hall. That sounds sleazy. It is a ballroom. Almost 60 million people have danced there, including Ray Bolger, Ruby Keeler, Chita Rivera, Fred and Adele Astaire. And there was Rudolf Valentino, Juan Crawford, James Cagney, George Gershwin.

In the lobby under glass, the magic shoes of the greatest dancers are preserved, glazed artifacts of sequins and beads, or beat out loafers with worn-down heels.

Also under glass are the names of more than 500 married couples who met at Roseland. But death and divorce have left gaps in the columns.

Alternating Latin and American bands play nonstop under the American flag that ripples to electric lights over the satin-draped bandstand. Over the years, Roseland has thrived to the music of Benny Goodman, the Dorsey brothers, Harry James, Gene Krupa, Guy Lombardo.

The couples still dance cheek to cheek to waltzes, tangos and fox trots, the old-time classics that require skill. This is a place of steps not gyrations, of decorum not abandon.

You can't get by with a wiggle here, and rock 'n' roll is out. The only modern dance permitted is the hustle. About 60 per cent of the patrons come in couples, said co-manager Jim O'Connor. The rest come alone, and for them Roseland is a social club and respectable singles hang out.

On Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays the matinees attract the middle-aged and elderly. About 200 regulars come several times a week.

A younger crowd comes at night, and aspiring dancers come to the contests, in hopes of becoming another Fred Astaire or Ginger Rogers.

Knowing that the old folks eventually will fox trot off into glory, Roseland officials are trying to attract new blood and shake the lonely hearts image. But the veterans are still the mainstay of Roseland.

College Student Tracing Roots Through 20 States

By JIM CARRIER
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — On gravesites, in dusty county courthouse basements, past family skeletons hidden in closets of neglect, Arthur Powell is tracing a line of blood. His own.

It is his own private "Roots" project, started out of curiosity two years before Alex Haley's book about his search for ancestors became a bestseller. His project is supported by a $1,272 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

It will take the 21-year-old Carleton College senior through 20 states with a camera and tape recorder, into homes of relatives he never knew, into libraries and court records.

From two counties in Alabama, Coosa and Buckingham, Powell hopes to trace his family lines — and those of many blacks — to the Carolinas and New York City's Harlem section. The project already is bringing his far-flung family together.

"It is getting relatives to know other relatives they didn't know. It's making them more curious about their family," said Powell in a telephone interview from his grandmother's home in the Bronx, where his search began.

Even the skeletons — the trace of Indian blood on one side of the family, the sister who had a baby that a brother never knew about — are emerging from interviews with family members.

"They don't mind. They want to go down in history and be put on the tree," he said.

Powell, who grew up in Harlem, began his project informally two years ago during a holiday break in New York. An aunt told him about relatives who were Indians. He began to ask questions.

Teachers at college persuaded him to make it a formal inquiry, and he traced the history back seven generations on his mother's side and six on his father's — back to slavery, but "not to the boat." While poking through census rolls from the 1800s in the Schomburg Library in New York, he found names from his grandfather's family.

"The Indian part of my family come from Coosa County. They may be Cherokees. But I have to go to the library and find out what kinds of Indians were there at that time," Powell said.

His grant will pay his expenses for three months, tracing not only a personal history but also a story of black migration in the South.

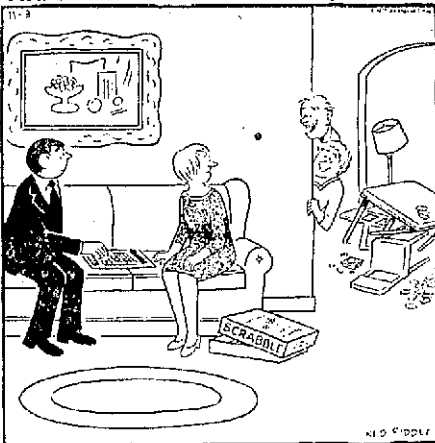

"I will be talking about the black experience in those two counties through the experience of my own relatives," he said.

At the end he will prepare a slide presentation and written report, including a specific method of genealogical research.

He also hopes to create a family association, which will solicit funds from relatives in his extended family to provide needy students in the family with books and supplies for their education.

Cuban Commoners Dine In Ex-du Pont Mansion

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
HAVANA (AP) — For about $6, a Cuban farmer can dine on red snapper at a table in the baronial mansion of one of the richest families in the world, the du Ponts of Delaware.

The Communist government of Fidel Castro seized the 450-acre estate in November 1961 and turned it into a restaurant, Las Americas, at the end of a peninsula near Varadero Beach, a resort 80 miles east of Havana.

Irene du Pont, who died at age 88 in 1963, built the house, complete with nine-hole golf course, in 1920, right before the stock market crash.

Diners sit among du Pont's books, his original N.C. Wyeth paintings and even photographs of his wife and daughters, left virtually untouched on the furniture, as they were when the house was seized.

When the house was taken over, there was talk in Cuba of turning it into a nautical school for boys. Now Castro says it will be kept as evidence of Cuba's "reverence for the past."

Drinkers balance on tiny chairs in the cubbyhole bar in what used to be the du Pont wine cellar with five niches, one each for the vines of five countries. In the main dining room, a velvet tapestry carries the verse of poet Samuel Taylor Coleridge:

a Stately Pleasure Dome Decree

Du Pont called the place Xanadu.

The main dining room is the showpiece. It has high, wood-beamed ceilings. Its walls are hung with tapestries. A dining table set with damask linen seats a dozen in red velvet chairs.

The plates are gold-rimmed and set off by three wine glasses, plus a fourth for champagne.

The food is simpler than the furnishings, running to fish, roast pork, tenderloin tips and chicken soup. A party of eight ran up a bill of approximately $60, including Portuguese white wine at $1.90 a glass.

The menu is in English, but the waiters, who wear black tie, speak only Spanish.

Patrons can roam the seven, second-floor bedrooms. They are furnished as they were when the estate was expropriated — in the painted furniture of the late 1920s and early 1930s. All bedrooms have attached marble baths.

Aloft the house is a pavilion, open to the sea breeze on four sides. It has a marble floor with an air chute to the first-floor pipe organ, so its music can be heard from two stories below. The corners of the pavilion are decorated with stone carved in the shape of the prows of Viking ships.

Las Americas is far from being Cuba's most expensive restaurant.

A group from a delegation of Massachusetts business people discovered a candidate for that distinction in Havana. It was a restaurant called La Ruina, the ruin, built in 1973.

After ordering from a menu without prices the party was handed a bill for $825. Paying took almost every centavo they had.

"Lucky we were in a Communist country," said Norma Fine, a specialist in economic development in the office of Boston Mayor Kevin White. "We didn't have to leave a tip."

Cuba Whips Infections; Chronic Diseases Next

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba has eliminated most of its infectious diseases, but it now faces the chronic disease problems of an industrialized nation, Cuban health officials say.

A delegation of five Cuban doctors spoke this week of the health care problems while attending the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association.

This is the first time since 1961 and the aftermath of the Cuban missile crisis that a non-government Cuban group has attended a professional meeting in the United States. The move is another indication of improving relations between the two countries.

The head of the delegation, Dr. Mario Escalona of Cuba's National Institute for Health Development, said general health in his country has improved greatly since the 1959 revolution that brought Communists to power.

"Before, our problems were similar to other Latin American countries, such as malnutrition and infectious disease," Escalona told a news briefing.

"We have eliminated or brought under control diseases like polio, meningitis, malaria and tetanus, and we can now say we have the same health problems as industrialized nations, such as heart disease," he said.

Escalona said the life expectancy in Cuba is 70 years, compared with 58 years two decades ago.

Although pre-revolution figures are not too reliable, infant mortality before 1959 was approximately 60 deaths per 1,000 live births, he said. This compares now with 22 deaths per 1,000 births.

In the United States, the latest federal figures show the life expectancy in 1974 was 71.9 years and infant mortality in 1975 was 13.1 deaths per 1,000 live births.

"One of our problems is to promote to a higher level the health of the population, to try to perfect services and to improve the satisfaction of the consumers," he said.

The officials said the more than nine million Cubans have 11,000 doctors and 34,000 nurses and other health professionals.

Dr. Cosme Ordóñez, a specialist in preventive medicine at Havana Medical School, said there were 6,000 doctors in Cuba at the time of the revolution, and half of them left the country.

In building up this depleted medical corps and reorganizing health care, Ordóñez said the new government broke from many traditions, including one of emphasizing treatment over prevention.

"Prevention was integrated with the curative aspects (of medicine) as one of the main principles of our health system," he said.

The officials said the U.S. economic embargo since 1961 has made it more difficult for Cuban medicine to stay in touch with the rest of the world and to get some needed supplies.

The group welcomed recent U.S. moves to allow Cuba to get drugs and medical literature previously withheld.

Hermione's Age A Secret

Q: How old is Hermione Gingold, anyway? I say she must be pushing 80 and a friend says he's 50. — T.O., Dayton, Ohio

A: Hermione's age is one of the best kept show-biz secrets. Nobody knows and Hermione claims her birth certificate went up in flames. Miss Gingold, now starring on Broadway in "Side by Side by Sondheim," says she thinks it's much better for people to say, "Isn't she wonderful for 82?" than to say, "Hermione claims to be 80, but we don't believe it." We have it on good authority that she's 79, and will be 80 in December — and in wonderful shape.

TAKING NO LIBERTIES: Author and New York Times columnist William Safire has been making the talk-show rounds promoting his book "Full Disclosure." Just minutes before Safire was to appear on a local Los Angeles talk show, the producer of the show became irate at Safire's refusal to accept an indemnity clause appearing in a "standard release" form, and booted Safire from the show's guest list. The clause removes all legal responsibility from the broadcaster and places it squarely on the signer of the release. Said Safire, "I don't enjoy signing away my personal liberties."

Q: I hear that Sophia Loren will move husband, children, bag, and a lot of baggage from Europe to set up permanent quarters in New York. Is that true? — J.C., San Diego

A: It depends on who you listen to. In promoting her latest movie, "A Special Day," Sophia apparently has been saying that she's definitely giving some thought to moving to the Big Apple. She's always been worried about the possibility of the kidnapping of her children, and that's a main reason why she and husband, producer Carlo Ponti, shifted from Rome to Paris, where the children are attending school. But a close associate of Ponti says emphatically that there's no plan to move to New York. Real estate operators remain skeptical, however, and have been flooding Sophia with offers to sell her $1 million-plus home in Westchester County.

Q: I've been looking forward to the science-fiction movie, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," which I hear is about flying saucers. Later, I've read about a movie called "Alien Encounters." Did they change the title or is it another picture? What gives? — O.L., East Hartford, Conn.

A: Both films are concerned with the possibility of life on other planets. Columbia Pictures, home of the big budget "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" — produced by Julia Phillips and Michael Phillips, starring Richard Dreyfuss and Francois Truffaut and directed by Steven Spielberg — protested to the Motion Picture Association of America, claiming the public would be confused over the similarity of titles. The independent company which produced "Alien Encounters" agreed to bring the matter before a panel of binding arbitration, although it's not a member of MPAA. The panel ruled that the smaller company put a disclaimer in their ads, but now Columbia's upset because the disclaimer they want to use is so tiny you can hardly read it.

Butz Says Carter Farm Policy Not Aggressive Enough

By JOE HERMAN
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told members of the Berrien County Farm Bureau here last night that once the profit leaves the agriculture business, so will the farmers.

Speaking to about 400 people at the annual Berrien County Farm Bureau meeting in the Youth Memorial Building, Butz emphasized the need for the profit incentive in American agriculture.

"As a nation we're pursuing a cheap food policy," Butz told the crowd. "Americans now spend only 17 percent of their take-home pay on food, and they think it's a ripoff. That's less money on food than ever before in our history and less than any other nation in the world."

Butz criticized the Carter administration for calling decreasing farm prices "good news" for the consumer.

"The White House is appealing to the masses who love cheap food prices," said Butz. "With the population growth that is expected we are going to have to double our food production before the end of the century. That can be done, but not unless there is a profit in growing food."

Butz, now dean emeritus of agriculture at Purdue University, also expressed concern about the current farm policy. Butz termed President Carter's failure to take a firm stand on farm policy the major agricultural problem of the White House.

"Carter has retreated from using his veto power with the Senate three times on the farm bill," he commented. "If I were in (Agriculture Secretary Bob) Bergland's position, I would demand a firm stand on a farm policy. I would also be more aggressive towards the sale of grain. We're losing our share of the foreign market to countries like Canada, Australia and New Zealand."

Butz termed the new farm bill a "stinker," and a prime example of congressional "logrolling." No one part of the bill would have passed on its own merits, he contends. Rather, city congressmen agreed to pass agricultural concessions in return for farm congressmen voting for additional food stamp programs and higher minimum wage laws.

Commenting on a threatened farm strike called for Dec. 14, Butz called the idea "ridiculous."

"I can imagine a dairy farmer trying to go without milking his cows, or a hog farmer telling his hogs to stop their rate of gain," he said. "The ones who are making all the noise and getting in the news are the farmers riding to the White House in tractors with air-conditioned cabs with stereos."

Discussing the sale of American grain to Russia, Butz said the grain sales can help to move the two countries towards peace. "Better bushels than bullets," he said. Butz served as secretary of agriculture from 1971 to 1976, and as assistant secretary under the Eisenhower administration. Butz said he considered his free-market philosophy one of the most important aspects of his administration.

"The government has to stay out of the storage business," he said. "The reserves should be owned by the people. When government controls the reserves, they simply feed it back into the market system in competition with more American grain. The way to get hold of reserves when it is owned by farmers, is to simply add 5 cents to the price. Then you'll have grain coming out of the woodwork."

Following Butz' talk, the Berrien Farm Bureau voted support for 14 resolutions calling for specific legislative action on the state and federal levels. Among them were: a proposal to initiate an open season on the control of woodchucks in the state; a resolution calling for an exemption to the minimum wage law for children age 12-18; support of a full agricultural exemption from the Michigan Single Business Tax; and an election procedure requiring migrant labor to leave on-farm housing within one week after termination of employment.

VAN BUREN TEACHER CONTRACT

Board Takes No Action

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren County Intermediate School District Board Wednesday night took no action on a request that it reconsider a proposed teacher contract that the board has already ratified.

Bill Micras, president of the Van Buren Intermediate Education Association, appeared before the board and said that the contract had been turned down by the VBIEA membership by a 31-23 vote in October.

He asked the board to resume contract negotiations that have been in recess since Oct. 20.

Board Trustee Felix "Phil" Racette of Paw Paw, noting that the board had already ratified that contract, said "I don't believe this board can react (to Micras' request) because we would be circumventing the actions taken by our negotiating team."

Micras said after the meeting that the primary issue yet to be resolved is the percentage of pay increases. He said he has asked the board's negotiating team to resume talks.

The board went into executive session after last night's regular meeting, presumably to consider its next course of action. In other areas, school officials said that Project Nomad, the district's summer migrant education program, is scheduled to receive some national exposure.

The board approved an agreement which will make teaching materials and unit outlines from the program available to school districts across the country.

John Dominguez, the intermediate district's director of migrant education, told the board that Project Nomad has been cited by the U.S. Department of Education as an exemplary program in its field. As a result, federal officials want to make the same type of program available nationally, he said.

Dominguez said brochures, teacher handbooks, and unit outlines from the program will be presented at a series of five regional education conferences, beginning Nov. 17 in Washington, D.C. He said the State Department of Education has agreed to furnish $20,000 to pay for the cost of the materials.

During other action, the board rejected a request by Mr. and Mrs. James DeKam that their property be transferred from the Bloomingdale to the Gobles school district. Gobles had favored the transfer; the Bloomingdale school board had voted against it.

Mrs. DeKam told the board that while neither of her two children are yet school age, she felt the Gobles schools were better than those in Bloomingdale, and that the family has stronger ties to the Gobles community.

Racette responded that her request did not meet any of the specifications for a transfer approval set down in board policies.

The DeKams now have 10 days to appeal the decision to the state Board of Education.

NEW SCHOOL CHIEF: Henry Gudith, Jr., Ann Arbor, has been named superintendent of Pennville's public schools. Currently assistant superintendent of Washtenaw Intermediate school district office in Ann Arbor, he replaces James Tackmann, who left Pennville, Oct. 1, to become superintendent at Cedar Springs. Gudith was offered a two-year contract Monday night calling for first-year base salary of $27,000. He is expected to assume his new duties in two to four weeks.

Democrats Push Con-Con

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Delegates to the Democratic State Central Committee are joining the drive for a state constitutional convention in 1979. At a weekend meeting, the Democrats also recommended several constitutional changes urged by a special party panel. One change, an apparent outgrowth of PRR contamination, calls for all state department heads to be directly accountable to the governor instead of to commissions. Agriculture Commissioner R. Dale Ball, accused of inaction on PRR, is one of several state agency heads chosen by commissions, not the governor. They currently can be fired only by the commissions. And by voice vote Saturday, the delegates approved a resolution opposing a ban on the use of Medicaid funds for abortions. Voters will decide in November 1978 whether a convention will be held to draw up a new constitution. The question automatically goes on the state ballot every 16 years. A 1961 convention drew a new constitution that was subsequently approved by voters.

Weesaw Ponders Halloween Rules

NEW TROY — Halloween night vandalism has prompted the Weesaw Township Board to take under study possible rules governing Halloween activities.

Paint was splashed against an elementary school building and a number of pumpkins were smashed on streets, township Police Chief Bill Doulet reported.

He asked the board to consider possible restrictions on future Halloween night activities.

The township had voted hours for door-to-door trick or treating this year. Several area groups sponsored a Halloween party in an effort to discourage vandalism.

The board scheduled a special meeting for 7:30 p.m., next Thursday, to consider a proposed utility control ordinance, a possible ban on building permit fees and an electrical code.

The utility control ordinance would require that utility companies give advance notice when construction across private property is planned, township officials said.

William Bartholomew, the township's building inspector, reported that in October he issued two building permits for an estimated $36,300 in construction.

VFW Foe Of Regulations

DETROIT (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars says tough new child-care regulations proposed by the state would force a shutdown of the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids. VFW officials told a public hearing this week the regulations fail to take into account the home's family-oriented approach to long-term child rearing. The hearing was on legislation sponsored by state Sen. Harold Scott, D-Flint, that would exempt the VFW home from regulation by the state Department of Natural Resources. The 180-bed home consists of 35 cottages for children from families of VFW members around the country in which one or both parents are dead or disabled. The VFW objected to proposals requiring child care workers to have high school educations, ban "punitive" discipline including spanking, require extensive fire and safety precautions, and require frequent visits by parents.

HENRIETTA FRAZIER
Treasurer candidate

WATERVLIT — A two-way race for the treasurer's post will be the only contest to be decided by Watervliet voters in the city's Nov. 8 non-partisan election here.

The race pits Henrietta Frazier, wife of Mayor Arvid Frazier, against Thomas Murphy, a former city commissioner and unsuccessful challenger to the mayor in the city's 1975 election.

Incumbent Treasurer William Rogers did not file for re-election.

Murphy, 45, of 357 Park St., is employed with Advanced Packaging Co., Grand Rapids. He serves on the Watervliet Fire and Ambulance Board, Berrien County CETA Board and the Paw Paw Lake Sewer Board. He and his wife, Mary Ann, have three children.

Mrs. Frazier, 43, of 923 N. Main St., is owner of Paw Paw Lake Realty. She is serving on the Paw Paw Lake Sewer Board and the Berrien County Planning Commission. She was secretary of the Watervliet Combined Appeal drive in 1975-76. She and her husband have four children.

Also on the ballot will be unopposed candidates for nine other city offices. They include two running for three available, four-year city commission berths; the clerk's office; assessor; two constable positions; and two positions on the city's board of tax review.

All three incumbent city commissioners whose terms are expiring did not file for re-election. They are William Lashbaugh, Albert Steffens and Richard Fox.

Unopposed candidates include, for the city City Commission, Harold De May, 47, of 441 Shepard Place; and Edward Pickett, 36, of 332 Walnut St.

Polls at the City Hall will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Landfill Contract Renewed

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven Township Board Wednesday night renewed a contract with Rick Jensen of South Haven for maintenance of the township's landfill.

The one-year agreement calls for the township to pay Jensen $150 per week.

In other business, Supervisor James Schmale announced that a county drain commission board of determination will review a petition to have a new drain field established in the Lambert subdivision on Nov. 7 at 10 a.m. The review will occur in the subdivision to allow the board to examine the situation site.

The board authorized payment of $1,900 to the county road commission for routine maintenance on roads during November.

Asked on Wednesday if he were, nevertheless, present in Lansing and working on committee business on the days mentioned, Mack told the Detroit Free Press, "You're right I was."

Sen. Bill Hoffman lashed the state $113.62 per night for two nights at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island during a September committee session, even though the hotel offered lawmakers a special rate of $42.50 per night.

Hoffman, D-Madison Heights, also was reimbursed for his wife and daughter who accompanied him on the trip. Hoffman told the Free Press he intended to pay back the money he collected for his wife and daughter.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Slide

NEW YORK (AP) — The skiddish stock market continued on a downward track in early trading today, after the Dow Jones industrial index closed at its lowest level in more than two years Wednesday.

The average of 30 industrial issues lost 3.03 to 297.52 in the first half hour of trading, after falling steadily all week.

There were more than twice as many losing issues as gainers in early trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Labor Department reported today that wholesale prices in October rose at the steepest rate since April. The index jumped to a 9.6 percent annual rate, which was about what some analysts had expected.

Fears over inflation and rising interest rates have been widely cited by market watchers as the reasons for the steep losses this week.

Among early prices of actively traded issues were: British Petroleum, down 1/4 to 15 1/2; American Motors, off 1/4 to 37 1/2; and EG&G Inc., down 1/4 to 16 1/2.

On Wednesday, the Dow Jones industrial average lost 6.06, closing at 800.85. That was the lowest close since Oct. 2, 1975, when it finished at 794.85.

Big Board volume totaled 20.76 million shares against 17.17 million in the previous session. Among NYSE-listed issues, there were more than twice as many losers as gainers.

The NYSE composite index dropped .35 to 49.78.

Farm Prices Take Jump

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —
Wholesale prices jumped eight-tenths of one percent last month, the biggest increase since April, as farm prices rise for the first time in six months, the government reported today.

After declining a total of 12.5 percent since April, prices for farm products soared 2.1 percent in October, signaling higher prices ahead at the supermarket.

Higher prices were reported for livestock, fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, grains, live poultry and oilseeds.

Also contributing to the sharp wholesale price increase last month were cars and trucks, reflecting the bigger price tags
for the new 1978 models.

Wholesale prices are paid by retailers and manufacturers before they reach the consumer, but the prices eventually show up at retail stores.

The October wholesale price increase was the largest since a 1.1 percent rise in April, at a time when inflation was rising at a 10 percent annual rate.

Farm prices were largely responsible for the rapid price increases earlier this year, but as they began to decline last spring the rate of inflation began to slow.

Wholesale prices, which had risen one percent or more for three consecutive months between February and April, rose only four-tenths of a percent in May. They then dropped by seven-tenths of a percent in June and by one-tenth of a percent in July before rising one-tenth of a percent in August and one-half of a percent in September.

The Carter administration has predicted an inflation rate of about 6 percent for the entire year, which is regarded as still high but acceptable. In 1976, the inflation rate was 13 percent.

Underlying the news of the slowing wholesale prices was another Labor Department report that weekly paychecks of most American workers were 815 fatter last May than a year ago, but inflation destroyed any real gain.

The department said Wednesday that weekly earnings of full-time wage and salaried workers averaged $212 in May 1977 — up $15, or 6.9 percent from May 1976. However, consumer prices rose at about the same pace and eroded the pay raise, officials said.

Economists were expecting a reversal in wholesale farm prices last month after the Agriculture Department reported last week that prices farmers get for their products as they move into the wholesale price chain rose 1 percent between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15.

While declining food prices were beneficial to consumers, they were of concern to agricultural officials, who said farmers were considering cutbacks in production to help drive up prices and make up for their losses.

The wholesale price index in October stood at 190.3, meaning that goods that sold for $100 in 1967 now sell for $190.30.
Wholesale prices have risen 5.9 percent over the past 12 months.

Cass Bank Joining Niles Holding Firm

CASSOPOLIS — Stockholders of the First National Bank of Cassopolis here, have voted in favor of affiliating with Western Michigan Corp., a Niles-based bank holding company.

The vote in favor of the affiliation proposal represented 94.4 percent of the bank's 72,000 shares.

According to A. Frank Woods, president of the Cassopolis bank, the reorganization is expected to be completed in December.

Under the plan, each stockholder will receive 1,335 shares of Western Michigan Corporation stock for each share of First National Bank of Cassopolis stock now owned.

The vote at the stockholder's meeting Friday was a near final step in the plan, announced in December, 1974, for affiliation with First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan of Niles through the holding company organized by the latter.

In announcing the vote, Woods said that First National Bank of Cassopolis will "continue being a Cassopolis bank as we have since 1865." He said the affiliation would give the bank greater flexibility and expand its banking capabilities. "Our customers should not expect adverse changes in our service or attitude," Woods said.

Western Michigan Corp., stockholders were to meet today to vote on a merger which will make the firm a Pacesetter Financial Corp. subsidiary.
Pacesetter is a registered bank holding company headquartered in Grand Rapids. Its present subsidiaries are Security First Bank and Trust
Co., Grand Haven; Traverse City State Bank, Traverse City;
The Ososco Savings Bank,
Owasco; and First Security Bank of Grand Haven.

The First National Bank of Cassopolis and First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan will become part of that banking group. The merger is subject to regulatory approval. Pacesetter also has pending an affiliation with Brighton State Bank, Brighton.

At the close of business Sept.
30, 1977, the First National Bank

Chicago Pair Bound Over On Burglary Tool Charge

Two Chicago men charged with possession of burglary tools were bound over to Berrien Circuit Court Wednesday after preliminary hearings in Berrien District Court.

Melvin Wilson (also known as Tyrone Wright) and Wayne J. Hickson, both 27, are charged with having wrenches, bars and flashlights in a car Oct. 23 in New Buffalo Township. They continued jailed in lieu of $10,000 bonds.

Jerry L. Price, 27, of 1911 Eastland Ave., Benton Township, was bound over to Circuit Court. He is charged with resisting arrest in Benton Harbor Oct. 1. He did not post $2,500 bail.

David A. Kilbin (also known as Neidlinger), 20, of Buchanan, waived examination and was bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of uttering and publishing a bad check. According to the warrant, the charge involves a $200 check cashed June 4 in New Buffalo. He is jailed under $10,000 bond.

Reche (also known as Richard) Davis, 27, of 1037 Union St., Benton Harbor, demanded examination on a perjury charge. According to the warrant, the alleged perjury was committed Sept. 14 when Davis applied for a duplicate driver's license. He allegedly swore falsely that information on a form he filled out was true, according to the warrant. The alleged violation occurred at the Secretary of State office, 244 Pipestone Ave., Benton Harbor. He was jailed in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Jeffery L. Griffin, 20, of 603 W. Fourth St., apartment 12, Buchanan, demanded examination. He is charged with attempted larceny over $100 involving the alleged attempted theft of copper wire. According to the warrant, the incident occurred Nov. 1 at the Essex Wire Co., Tudor Road, Berrien Springs. A $1,500 personal recognition bond was granted.

Cyndi Garrard, 25, of 36 N. Whitaker, New Buffalo, was sentenced to two years probation and restitution of $1,139 for conspiracy to embezzle money. She pleaded to contest to the charge, involving money taken from Dr. John Streffling in New Buffalo June 6. The original charge, embezzling over $100, was dismissed.

Raymond A. Howley, 19, of Watervliet, was sentenced to pay fine and costs of $115 for exciting a disturbance in Kalamazoo Township Aug. 13.

Sentenced for driving while their licenses were suspended were Calvin T. Outlaw, 27, of 855 Pitkin Ave., Benton Harbor; and Michael R. Wetzel, 28, of 1200 E. Empire Ave., Benton Township. Outlaw was sentenced to 90 days in jail. Wetzel's sentence was three days in jail and $100.

A charge of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 was dismissed yesterday against Don Nunez, 22, of 1603 Sunset Court, Berrien Springs. The charge involved a radio and microphone, and was dismissed because the complaining witness has moved out of state, the record stated.

Patterson, Wife File Crash Suit

Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson and his wife have filed a civil suit in Berrien Circuit Court seeking more than $10,000 damages for injuries Mrs. Patterson allegedly sustained in a 1974 automobile accident.

Named defendants in the suit were Vicki and Kenneth Briley, of Van Buren County, and Detroit Automobile Inter-Insurance Exchange.

The suit claims Mrs. Patterson was injured Oct. 22, 1974, when she stopped the car she was driving to turn from Britain Avenue onto Payne Street, Benton Harbor. The suit alleges an auto driven by Vicki Briley hit the back of Mrs. Patterson's car, resulting in neck and back injuries to Mrs. Patterson.

The suit maintains the Pattersons are insured with the Detroit Exchange, and although the company paid some personal injury benefits under a no-fault policy, has failed to pay other benefits.

The suit seeks any amount over $10,000 from the Brileys which a jury might award, and the same figure from the insurance company.

Helen Ford Bound Over In Car Loan Case

Helen Ford has been bound over to Berrien Circuit Court for the second time on a charge brought by the Berrien Citizens' Grand Jury regarding a $2,500 car loan.

In an opinion signed Tuesday, Berrien District Judge Ronald J. Taylor ordered her bound over on a charge of obtaining $2,500 under false pretenses from Inter-City Bank of Benton Harbor Dec. 10, 1975.

Taylor bound her over on the charge last January. In September, Circuit Judge Zee S. Berkholz remanded the case to District Court because of a technicality — faulty wording of the warrant.

Mrs. Ford, 41, reportedly lives in Chicago. She is a former executive director of Berrien County Action and a former Benton Harbor city commissioner.

According to the grand jury indictment, Mrs. Ford was given the auto loan after she falsely stated that the 1973 Cadillac she wanted to purchase was free of encumbrances.

Minimum Wage Hike -- The Bad Side

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In 1938 the minimum hourly wage was 25 cents. In 1978, because of legislation signed this week by President Carter, it will be $2.65, or 10 times the dollar amount of 40 years ago.

Now divide by four. The answer, in terms of purchasing power, is about where the minimum wage stands in relation to that 25 cents of 1938. Using a standard measurement, the 1957-1959 dollar, buying power was about $2 in 1938, less than 50 cents in 1977.

"The impact on our economy will be very beneficial," said Carter during a White House ceremony. "All that ever came" of earlier increases, he said, "is a little better way of life."

Carter said the newest increases, to $3.35 an hour by Jan. 1, 1981, will put $9 billion into the pockets of America's low-wage workers. He didn't mention inflation.

Neither, apparently, was much mention made of the critics who believe the minimum wage itself feeds inflation and thus in part defeats its goals. The poor, who must spend all their money on necessities, are most hurt by inflation.

The minimum wage, aimed at redistributing more of the nation's income into the lowest income brackets, remains controversial, no matter how democratic its goal.

Among the criticisms: It actually closes off job opportunities to the unskilled, it undermines apprenticeship programs, it adds to teen-age unemployment, it contributes to the price spiral by forcing up all other wages.

This, in turn, it is argued, forces millions of Americans into higher tax brackets. Although their higher incomes might be due largely to an illusion, they are forced to pay more taxes nevertheless.

Among the defenses: It is required to help provide the unskilled with the necessities of life, it furthers the cause of more equitable income distribution, it strengthens democracy, it primes the economic pump.

While the goals are noble, one commonly misunderstood aspect of the situation is how the money is taken from workers by dollar erosion almost as fast as they get it.

Business expenses, that is, are simply passed on through as price increases. Some of the expenses might be absorbed if productivity rises, but history shows productivity doesn't rise by making unskilled labor more costly.

Instead, the greater the number of unskilled the less likely are productivity gains to be realized, an economic phenomenon demonstrated during every recent business cycle.

Productivity increases are a product of human skills and the wise use of capital and technology that lower production costs, allow goods to be sold for lower prices and still leave excesses to be distributed to workers and shareholders.

To raise productivity — call it efficiency — requires capital.

The capital expenditure to create one job varies from industry to industry. In chemicals it might be hundreds of thousands of dollars, in others only a small fraction of that. Some authorities say the average is $50,000-$75,000.

Therefore, says business, to create jobs we must have lower taxes. We must encourage savings. We must reduce inflation. And we must invest the ensuing benefits in a larger production plant.

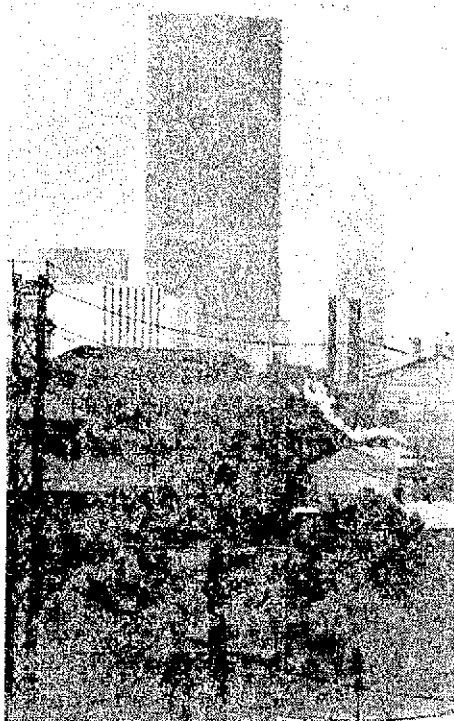

Almost everyone concedes that the problem with selling the story lies in the suspicions of rank-and-file Americans that fat cat industrialists are serving their own interests rather than those of the nation.

But the alternative, say supporters of this argument, is to give some people more of the pie without cutting into the piece that's supposed to go to their neighbor.

It can't be done, of course. It's an illusion, like inflated dollars. And those on the minimum wage know it better than anyone else.

INTERESTED: Executive of the steel industry, like those in the U.S. Steel Building (tail building) will be "damned interested observers" when Pittsburgh voters are asked whether local officials should push for weaker anti-pollution laws. The mills of the Monongahela valley, that once made the city known as "Hell with the lid off" are in the foreground. (AP Laserphoto)

It Follows Tunnel Disaster

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has been handed a bill making it easier for prosecutors to bring charges against construction firms for safety violations. The House last night approved the measure Tuesday, 91-7. The bill stems from a legislative investigation of the 1971 Port Huron tunnel disaster. That probe found that present law did not deal adequately with safety violations and that violators could not easily be prosecuted. Under the bill, the definition of "intent" to injure a worker through lax safety standards is clarified. It would define such intent as "knowingly and purposely" disregarding safety standards.
